Wrentham superintendent to succeed O'Donnell

By MEDAY OULLETTE

WILMINGTON - The School Committee has unanimously chosen William McAlduff as the new superintendent of the Wilmington School System.

Currently, McAlduff is the Superintendent of the King Philip School District, which consists of the towns of Norfolk, Plainfield and Wrentham in western Massachusetts. He will succeed Wilmington Superintendent of Schools Geraldine O'Donnell when she resigns in June.

The committee made its choice official during its meeting on Wednesday, March 19. Lawyers on both sides are now negotiating a deal. A formal vote to officially name McAlduff as the new superintendent will take place during the meeting of the School Committee on Wednesday, April 23.

At first, School Committee member Barbara Breakey cast her vote for Andre Ravenelle, the interim Superintendent of the Barnstable Public School System. She later changed her vote to favor McAlduff, so that the committee's tally could be unanimous and demonstrate full support for the incoming superintendent.

Chairman Stephen Peterson originally leaned towards Ravenelle, as well, but swayed to McAlduff.

The majority of members on the School Committee showed strong support for McAlduff.

Suzanne Duffy, in particular, called McAlduff a "clear and confident" individual who has an "obvious open door policy" with fellow staffers and students. During her visit to McAlduff's district, Duffy noticed that the students in McAlduff's charge were "relaxed."

Wilmington unites behind U.S. troops

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - Don't expect any anti-war demonstrations to tie up the traffic in Wilmington any time soon.

An informal Town Crier poll has shown that a majority of Wilmington residents support the United States' war with Iraq, President Bush's handling of the situation, and, most importantly, our troops in the Persian Gulf.

In fact, a majority of those polled are convinced of a connection between Iraqi President Saddam Hussein and terrorist organizations, such as al-Qaeda.

"The primary reason to go in is to disarm Saddam Hussein because I truly believe that he endorses, supports, and gives harbor to terrorism, which directly impacted us on September 11," says resident Ed Hardy. "I fear for my children's future."

Richard Parent, who spent time in the Persian Gulf while fighting for the United States in World War II, agreed with the president's move to disarm Hussein and continues to support the operation. He is, however, concerned with the tactics used by Iraq in the war.

"People in civilian clothes are smiling at our troops one minute and then shooting at them," Parent states.

Ed Boschetti is also concerned with the potential level of casualties.

"I think we are going to win, but I think there is going to be a lot of casualties, which is unfortunate," Boschetti stated.

Boschetti considered himself to be 50/50 on whether the United States had enough reason to invade Iraq without support from the United Nations. He wasn't convinced that enough evidence had been presented by the Bush Administration and feels that disarmament is not the only reason that the United States is in Iraq.

"We are not just there just for oil either," Boschetti theorizes. "I think we want to have a

Maple Meadow Aquifer

Strategies outlined for confronting NDMA

By SHAWN P. SULLIVAN

WILMINGTON - Environmental officials and town department heads addressed the public during the selectmen meeting on Monday, March 24, and explained measures that have been taken in the time since a carcinogen was discovered in four inactive wells at the Maple Meadow Brook Aquifer a few weeks ago. Last week, the Wilmington Water Department announced that nitrosodimethylamine was discovered in preliminary tests that had been conducted within the aquifer. The chemical, known as NDMA, is a proven carcinogen in animals, a fact that has made it considered to be a likely one in humans too.

According to Water Superintendent Michael Woods, test results have indicated that NDMA has not been found in the town's drinking water.

Stephen Johnson, the Chief of Site Management at the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP), detailed for selectmen and residents the eventual discovery of the chemical in the aquifer. Since 1993, Johnson has supervised the efforts made by the Olin Chemical Corporation to rid its location at 51 Eames Street of all contaminants within the ground. Johnson specializes in Tier 1A sites, which, he said, are "complex and serious hazardous waste sites."

According to Johnson, the DEP requested in the summer of 2000 that Olin conduct a comprehensive sampling program, in which all chemicals on the property would be evaluated for their levels and how they relate to state standards. The results of the samplings revealed that, with the exception of sodium, there were not any chemicals on the property that exceeded available standards.

"We now know that the sampling that we thought was comprehensive was not comprehensive enough," Johnson said.

In December of 2001, Johnson directed Olin to look at all past chemicals that had been generated at the Olin site over the years. During this process, local environmental activist Debbie Duggan flagged NDMA in her research and asked the DEP if the chemical should be tested.

The DEP and Olin learned that the site had been tested for NDMA in 1990. As many as 52 samples of groundwater at the location were collected and analyzed for the chemical. It was determined that there was not a presence of the chemical in regards to the limit of ten parts per billion, which was the standard at the time. As a result, NDMA was taken off the DEP's list of Chemicals of Concern.

Nonetheless, the DEP decided to finally test the area for NDMA. The department was

Building moratorium petition submitted

A second petition addresses senior housing

By SHAWN P. SULLIVAN

WILMINGTON - Selectman Michael McCoy took one step closer in his quest for a Special Town Meeting when he submitted petitions for a building moratorium and senior housing to his colleagues on the board on Monday night.

The other four selectmen on the board voted to accept the two petitions and deliver them to Town Clerk Kay Scanlon and Town Counsel Michael Newhouse for their review.

If a Special Town Meeting is declared, McCoy is hoping that voters will address two articles as they have been outlined in his petitions.

The first article seeks to place a temporary moratorium on all new construction in town that would last no longer than two years. According to McCoy, restrictions would not be placed on those in town who would want to expand upon such existing structures as homes and businesses.

The second article seeks to secure the transfer of $3.5 million from the town's "free cash" reserve to be used towards the design and full construction of an affordable housing center for the senior citizens in the community. The article proposes that the town would own and control the center and that the Board of Selectmen will determine the rent, rules and regulations to be imposed on the inhabitants. Furthermore, the location of the center would be determined by selectmen.

In order to submit a petition that calls for a special town meeting, a resident must collect 200 signatures from registered voters. McCoy told selectmen that he collect-

Elderly motorist in critical condition after crash

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - An elderly woman is in serious condition after the car that she was driving accidentally hit a tree on Main Street on the morning of Wednesday, March 26.

At press time, authorities were not releasing any information regarding the nature of the woman's injuries or her identity, so that her family could first be notified.

The accident occurred at near the entrance at Textron at 687 Main Street at approximately 10:40 a.m. Only the woman's car was involved.

The woman was traveling northbound away from Woburn when she crossed into the southbound lane and went off of the road. She struck the tree head-on.

Police would confirm that the woman sustained "serious injuries." The victim was transported by ambulance to Winchester Hospital.

Wilmington's ambulance was out on a call at the time of the accident, Wilmington police officers were assisted on the scene by an ambulance originating from the Reading Fire Department.

Police are not speculating on a cause of the accident, but are engaged in an investigation.

Selectmen candidates will debate on Monday night

By SHAWN P. SULLIVAN

WILMINGTON - Live, from Wilmington, it's the candidates' debate.

Such a proclamation may not have the same ring as that which opens "Saturday Night Live" on TV every weekend, but it should nonetheless resonate with local voters who are wondering where candidates for selectmen stand on such issues as development and taxes and the quality of the town's water supply.

On Monday, March 31, Wilmington Community Television (WCTV) will broadcast live a debate between the seven candidates who will vie for the two seats that are available on the Board of Selectmen this campaign season. The forum, which will begin at 7 p.m. on channel 22, will take place at the Town Hall at 121 Glen Road.

The debate will be broken into two segments, the first of which will focus on candidates Suzanne Sullivan and Daniel Wandell, Junior, who are both competing for the one year of an unfinished term that is available on the board. The seat is currently occupied by John Forrest, who has decided not to run to complete the term that started with Selectman Scott Garrant two years ago.

After a short break, the next segment will focus on Robert Cain, Gerald Duggan, Karl Sagal, Frank West and Ann Yurek, who are the five candidates who have set their sights on the single three-year term that is up for grabs. Cain, the incumbent, has occupied the seat since the late 1970s.

The candidates will face questions from a panel that will consist of members of the press, including the Town Crier, and a representative of the League of Women Voters. Moderator James Stewart will moderate the debate. Each candidate will have an opportunity to make a closing statement.

Changes made in Diabetic services

WILMINGTON - Attention Diabetics!!! Do you know??

The Center for Medicare and Medicaid - CMS has changed how Medicare Part B pays for Diabetic supplies.

Medicare previously allowed individuals to get diabetes supplies at local drug stores and request Medicare B to reimburse them.

Under the new guidelines you must get your supplies at a Medicare Participating Provider.

Medicare Coverage of Diabetes

Related Supplies and Services

A new publication on Medicare coverage of diabetes supplies and services will be available this year. Contact MEDICARE for your free booklet. 1-800-633-4227 TTY: 1-877-486-2048.

What is a Medicare Participating Provider?

For Medicare Part B covered supplies, you should find out if your pharmacy or supplier participates with Medicare.

If they are participating, they accept assignment. This means they must accept the Medicare approved amount as payment in full. You should only pay your 20 percent co-pay (and any remaining Medicare part B deductible) when you get your supplies.

If they are not participating, they do not have to accept assignment. This means that you pay out of pocket and you may pay more.

Medicare HMO enrollees: Your Diabetic supplies are included within your quarterly prescription drug coverage amount.

Tips: *Check with your HMO to see if they have a contract with a Supplier to ensure a lower cost.

Prescription Advantage Enrollees:

Prescription Advantage does pay for some supplies and medications not covered by Medicare Part B. Check with the program to see what of your supplies/medications are covered. 1-800-243-4636

How do I get my free booklet and names of Participating Providers?

You can get names of Participating Providers in several ways: Phone: Contact Medicare directly at 1-800-633-4227-TTY: 1-877-486-2048.

The Medicare.gov website lists the following suppliers in our area: Southeast Medical Inc.,

Forum on March 31 will address children's needs at school

Do you feel alone?
Are you tired of fighting?
Is the school meeting your child's needs?

Does the school listen to you?
If you feel alone, you're not.
Did you answer "no" to any of these questions?

If so, please come and join the many other parents who are in the same situation.

On Monday, March 31, a public meeting will be held at 6:30 in the Conference Room of Tewksbury Police Headquarters for parents who answered "no" to the questions above.

Families Advocate for Children's Education's Mission is to work to create the best education for all children in public schools by providing knowledge and understanding to the public.

It's Your Money

ROLL OVER YOUR KEOGH

If you're no longer actively contributing to your individual Keogh retirement plan - maybe you're retired - there are a couple of good reasons to roll that money over into an IRA.

Simplest of all is that you'll no longer have to contend with annual 5500 reports.

Even more important is that non-spousal heirs can't stretch out their withdrawals from a one-person Keogh over their lives. The IRS expects that the account total be emptied within a year from the death of the owner. Spouses, however, get full rights and can roll over the proceeds into an IRA of their own, naming new beneficiaries allows them to stretch out subsequent withdrawals.

Now a new, private-letter ruling on this subject points to a possible loophole to allow non-spousal heirs to take the money out more slowly. Key: the Keogh buys a nontransferable annuity that makes payments like an IRA.

From the Editor's Desk

By Shawn P. Sullivan

She flagged NDMA

Society tends to regard environmentalists with a certain wariness, as though they are tree-hugging zealots who insist that the sky is falling. Perhaps it was not until Julia Roberts played Erin Brockovich in a movie that the general public began listening a bit more closely to what these folks had to say. Roberts has that effect on people. Maybe it has everything to do with approach. When local environmentalists address town officials and experts, they often speak with feisty confidence, obvious skepticism towards authority, and an artillery of minute factoids that leave in the dust those of us who flunked chemistry class in high school. They also speak with a passion that occasionally veers into outrage.

When activists are assured by local officials, representatives of the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) and spokespeople from certain chemical companies that there is little to worry about since much is being done, they soldier on, holding the floor at meetings for long stretches of time because they remain convinced that there is more there than meets the eye.

Sometimes, they're right.

Take Wilmington resident Debbie Duggan, for example. A year or so ago, Duggan asked the DEP if the Olin Chemical Corporation should be testing for a carcinogenic chemical named NDMA in the Maple Meadow Brook Aquifer. The last time that the area had been tested for NDMA was 1990. Results from those tests offered no indication of the chemical, so it was removed from the DEP's list of Chemicals of Concern.

Thirteen years later, NDMA is Public Enemy Number One when it comes to chemicals that have migrated from the Olin property into the Maple Meadow Brook Aquifer. The discovery of the chemical in four of the town's inactive wells has goosed the DEP into researching the history of that carcinogen at the property and its effect on the environment and the populace.

The discovery has also prompted the DEP to give credit where credit is due. At the meeting of the Board of Selectmen on Monday, March 24, Stephen Johnson, the DEP Chief of Site Management, applauded local activists for their hard work and dedication. Specifically, Johnson singled out Duggan as the one who "flagged" NDMA and urged the DEP to test for it.

By far, local activists are not at all the only ones in the community who work tirelessly in defense of the environment. Town officials such as Health Board Director Greg Erickson and Water Superintendent Michael Woods have dedicated their careers to such causes. Both men rarely receive the credit that they deserve for the time and energy that they put into such demanding and difficult jobs.

In terms of these developments with NDMA, however, The Town Crier would like to join Johnson in singling Duggan out and applauding her for urging the DEP to look closer. In flagging NDMA, she helped further the case that answers exist for the incidences of childhood cancer that have been reported in town. In doing so, Duggan proved that, with dedication, conviction and persistence, one person can truly and significantly make a difference.

Poem

Twass the Night Before . . .

(with apologies to Clement Moore)

Twass the night before the Board meeting and all through the town,
Only one candidate was standing, twelve were shot down.
The plan for the nomination was completed with care
In hopes that the town citizens would not be there.

Everyone in the audience had just settled in their seat,
Hoping this meeting would not be just another repeat.
Then all at once there arose such a clatter.
The Chairman said their opinion did not matter.

His eyes how they were flashing;
His fists on the desk were bashing.
A wink of his eye and a twist of his head,
Soon let everyone know they had something to dread.

More rapid than eagles, his answers they came.
He shouted and called them all by name.
No Frank, no George, no Anne and no Paul.
Now go away, go away, go away all.

He congratulated himself for a good night's work.
The audience meanwhile was going berserk.
And I heard him exclaim as he adjourned the meeting that night,
"I won't give up my seat in April without a fight."

Standing Eight Count

by Stephen Bjork

With this column, I am officially declaring my candidacy for a seat on the Wilmington Board of Selectmen, and I would humbly ask that you cast your vote for Stephen Bjork.

I have lived in this town with a great sense of pride for more than 28 years (which, I suppose, would make it 29 years) and now it is my turn and privilege to raise a family here. While it is true that I spent a couple of years during my twenties living elsewhere, I moved back to Wilmington as soon as the charges were dropped. This town has been good to me and it is time to give something back to the community. I certainly would look forward to serving the people of Wilmington to the very best of my ability, if given the chance.

What, you may ask, does Stephen Bjork bring to the table? For one thing, I bring experience in foreign diplomacy. Recently I returned from a press trip to North Korea. While there, I was granted a private audience with Kim Jong II, the sick and twisted leader of that country. He laughs every time I describe him as "sick and twisted." It has become kind of an inside joke between the two of us, and he refers to me as "the capitalist pig." Boy, we sure did have some laughs.

I must admit that my diplomatic meetings with Jong were not as successful as I would have liked. I brought my own personal interpreter, who, as it turned out, was not able to speak Korean. Truth be told, he wasn't very proficient in English, either, but he was very comfortable with Farsi. Farsi is a fine language, I am sure, but it was of very little help to me on my trip and, unfortunately, Jong had my interpreter executed.

Since Jong and I were not able to communicate with words, we were left with no other option but to call out for pizza and play Monopoly for two straight days. I'll tell you this: For someone who denounces the institution of capitalism, he was ruthless. He beat me 8 out of 10 times.

Jong's Monopoly skills aside, no other candidate for Wilmington Selectman can claim to have experience in foreign diplomacy behind them.

As your duly elected Selectman, I can honestly say that I will bring a strong set of morals and principles to the office. Oh, sure, I can be bought, but only for an extremely large sum of money. I can honestly assert that under no circumstances would my lofty ethics falter for anything less than $250,000 (in small, unmarked bills, of course). Or maybe for a new Porsche Boxster. I have to admit, I really do want one of those.

Aah, but I digress.

I am proud of this town. I come from Wilmington, born and hazed. I am proud to say that I attended the Wilmington public school system and then went on to flunk out of my first attempt at college.

As my number one priority, I plan to rid Wilmington Center of the filthy, rotten muggers and the putrid petty thieves that, at present, swarm the area without even a smattering of fear. I, for one, shall have memories of people walking through the center after dark without fear. This clean-up will not be an easy task, I know, but it can be accomplished by instituting a state of martial law and suspending civil rights on a short-term basis. Once all the criminals are rounded up and thrashed to a pulp, I plan to replace them with brand new, and much improved, muggers and petty thieves, at no cost to taxpayers.

This municipality, along with every other town in the Commonwealth, is facing a financial crisis the likes of which has not been seen since the Great Depression. This town needs a Selectman who will actively seek out and attract new businesses to set up operations here in Wilmington. I am such a candidate. With my extensive background in corporate America, I have uncounted connections in many industries, such as bookmaking and loansharking, and I have no doubt that attractive offers can be put together to entice a number of these businesses to town.

This has been a long hard winter and the budget for snow removal has been greatly depleted. As your Selectman, I promise to work hand in hand with the Town Manager to ensure that we not spend one red cent on snow removal between the months of May and September.

Apartment and condominium complexes proposed under the guise of Chapter 40B is, very likely, the hottest topic for Wilmington residents, especially those in the West Street and Salem Street areas, during this campaign season. As your duly elected Selectman, I promise to keep inappropriate 40B projects out of this town. I am not a small guy and I know how to handle myself. With the systematic use of intimidation, along with a generous portion of unspeakable violence, I promise to successfully dissuade developers from proposing offensive projects.

I am so committed to the people of Wilmington, and to the issues at hand, that I have read every page of "The Impact And Evolution Of The Massachusetts Comprehensive Permit and Zoning Appeals Act: Thirty years of Experience With A State Legislature Effort To Overcome Exclusionary Zoning." This is a comprehensive 49-page report detailing the effects of Chapter 40B over the last 30 years, written for the Western New England Law Review by Sharon Perlman Krefetz. Now, I'm not claiming to have understood all of it. Hell, I don't understand most of the title, but does that show commitment or what?

I have no doubt that I can work well with my fellow Selectmen and Town officials. As a matter of fact, I have spent a great deal of time pestering and annoying many of our fine town officials, and I am sure that through those efforts I have gained a significant level of respect from them. Either respect or revulsion; I tend to confuse those two concepts.

In addition to my promises, I am going to do something that most of the other candidates tend to shy away from. I would like to outline a series of campaign threats.

When elected, I will go through the voting records and will then instruct the DPW to dig up the shrubs and bushes of every resident who did not cast a vote for me. They may not have time to dig up every bush on each and every property, but are you really willing to take that chance?

Once in office, I will keep a running list of people who tick me off and will periodically access the town's computer system to alter their property tax rate along with their excise taxes. For fun, I may just wipe out any and all payments made during the last 25 years. In fact, depending on how the computer system works, and on how badly the person gets on my bad side, I may choose to significantly alter the person's property lines. Maybe I'll just change the zoning of their property to Heavy Industrial. Yeah, that would be fun.

With all of that being said, this year's election is not simply about what the voters want for themselves. No, it goes far beyond that, this year especially. I would like to say to the voters of Wilmington: Stop being so selfish and stop thinking about nothing but yourselves for once. I would say, respectfully, what is wrong with you freaks? There is a bigger issue on the table this year, Me.

To paraphrase the great John F. Kennedy from his famous inauguration speech in 1960, ask not what Stephen Bjork can do for you. Ask what you can do for Stephen Bjork. It's high time that the voters of Wilmington realized that Stephen Bjork should be elected to the office of Selectman by way of a unanimous vote. In fact, an article should be submitted to the warrant for the next Town Meeting naming Stephen Bjork to the new position of Overlord of Wilmington, with complete and total authority over both the town and its citizens.

As your Overlord and Supreme Leader, I promise to take good care of you, my underlings. Mark my words: Those who supported me will prosper beyond their wildest dreams, while those who opposed me will be forced to work the overnight shift at Simard's Roast Beef.

I trust that you will make the right choice on April 19 and I thank you for your time.

Stephen Bjork spent six years as a full time professional stand-up comedian traveling all over the country and performing in major venues including Las Vegas, New York, and Los Angeles. He currently resides in Wilmington with his wife and son. His email address is stephenbjork@attbi.com.

Letters to the Editor

Support Article 18 at the annual town meeting

Dear Editor:

I am writing to ask that Wilmington citizens support Article 18 at the Annual Town Meeting on Saturday, April 26. Article 18 seeks to fund GeoInsight to represent the Town of Wilmington in studying the Chemicals of Concern (COC) in the Maple Meadow Aquifer (MMA). It has been a long, hard fight to get this far.

There were numerous selectmen's meetings last fall in which we held signs, fought for the right to speak, went unrecognized, were called unruly activists and were told we would be physically ejected if we did not act more respectfully to the Board of Selectmen. This has not been a pleasant sight for you to see or for us to participate in.

Once the Citizens Advisory Panel (CAP) was formed, we set about deciding what we wanted to gain. Those long involved with the environmental issues such as Kathy Barry, Debbie Duggan and Suzanne Sullivan, were heads and shoulders above the others of the panel leading the way. Their knowledge, persistence and dedication are to be applauded. In fact, I have apologized to them for being so late in joining the group.

When the vote was taken, only three members of the panel felt that hiring our own consultant was not necessary. They felt we could rely on current testing which the companies had done. One was a citizen member of the Wilmington Water Board and another was our Health Inspector, Greg Erickson. With the recent finding of NDMA, a carcinogen, in our water supply, how wrong they have been proven to be.

There is an old adage that "he who controls the testing controls the results." We were not prepared to let the self interests of huge companies surpass our own need to verify the results ourselves.

Please vote for Article 18 - our own evaluation of the Maple Meadow Aquifer.

Rauseo has her vote

Dear Editor:

I would like to share with the Tewksbury community that their vote for Keith Rauseo for School Committee would not go unnoticed. They would see that Keith stands behind his word.

I have seen Keith first hand with our children. He wants to see that each child reaches their highest potential inside and outside of school. He has always participated at the town socials. His involvement has always been of high standards.

He is also a wonderful coach and will throw the ball around with a child to let them know that he is interested and concerned with their development. He wants to see that children receive the best education that our town has to offer.

Stop by and meet Keith on Election Day. You will be happy that you did. Keith Rauseo for School Committee.

Sincerely,
Cheryl I. Keefe

Pantry does not receive funding

Dear Editor:

In the past week I received several calls asking if any of the requests for donations from the Greater Boston Food Bank went to Wilmington's food pantry. I said no, and looked into the matter.

Apparently a select mailing went to some Wilmington households requesting funds to be used to feed people in Wilmington. I do not know who is eligible for this food, where it is distributed, or how it is distributed. I am sure the Greater Boston Food Bank has this information.

I want the people of Wilmington to know that our food pantry receives absolutely NO funding from any federal, state, or local agency. We are completely independent and receive ALL our donations from the residents, schools, businesses, clubs, churches and organizations located here in Wilmington.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank each of those groups for their generous and continuous support of our pantry for these past 11 years.

Make Yentile Farm a cemetery

Dear Editor:

This letter is in regard to the Yentile Farm. After thinking that the town was willing to put up $1 million in conjunction with $1 million that Representative Miceli had acquired from the state to purchase the property for open space, and knowing that the combined $2 million was rejected by the Yentile family because the property was valued for much more, I thought that if the town purchased the property for the market value, which is $3.5 million (don't get scared), it could convert the farm into something that the town needs as much as it needs anything, which is a cemetery.

The town could accomplish a few things: have open space and create a source of revenue. Presently, the town has no long range cemetery plans. If they do have one, it is a well guarded secret, since I work in the business and have reason to go into Wildwood Cemetery more than I would like to. All that I have heard or seen is a band-aid approach, such as constructing lots on each side of the garage, ripping up some of the paved streets and using some of the land across Wildwood Street for lots.

The Yentile farm has at least 10 good acres of usable land. Since you can construct between 800-1,000 lots per acre and the lots are priced at $1,000 each, that comes out to $800,000 to $1,000,000 per acre, times 10 acres. That equals $8 to $10 million. I know that the price per lot is higher than what the present price is, but I have done some homework and our present price is much lower than municipal cemeteries in surrounding towns and private cemeteries. Using Reading for an example, their cemetery department has been mandated by the town to support itself with lot prices. They charge $850 per lot, plus opening cost. One private cemetery that checked charges $1,500 per lot, plus opening costs. Knowing that February 7 was the deadline for submitting petition articles for the annual town meeting, I thought doing nothing was not the right thing to do, so I went to the Yentile Farm and spoke to some of the family. They had no objections and then told me that there was a petition being circulated to rezone the property for development for Over 55 housing.

I decided that since there was strong interest before to have the property kept as open space, that there was a large percentage of the residents who wanted development to slow down, many of the 30-some thing signatures that I got that day expressed that feeling. Since we are going to get Over 55 housing in other locations, plus 14 town houses in Wilmington Center, I submitted the article and will let the voters at Town Meeting decide.

My personal feeling is that converting the farm into a cemetery will create open space, pay for the expenditure and produce revenue for the town. (I hope someone doesn't think that I might know more than town government.) Since I am a member of the Audubon Society I know the property can be landscaped as a bird sanctuary. This project will also cause no strain on any of the town resources. As far as I am concerned, this is a classic win/win.

Even though we need over 55 housing, we also need to expand our cemetery capacity, as uncomfortable as it may seem to discuss. Otherwise we will have to go out of town for services.

Sincerely,
Jerry Duggan

WNA: Where else is NDMA present?

Dear Editor:

As many of you are aware, the Woburn Neighborhood Association (WNA) is not only involved with the Woburn Landfill. WNA is also involved with the Maple Meadow Landfill and the property of the Olin Chemical Corporation. Some WNA members are also members of the Community Advisory Panel in Wilmington.

The following release is one of the reasons why we are so involved. On March 19, 2003, the Woburn Neighborhood Association received a notice from Wilmington Town Manager Michael Cairra regarding the presence of nitrosodimethylamine (NDMA) in four of the inactive wells in the Maple Meadow Brook Aquifer.

The Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) believes that NDMA is present in the Maple Meadow Brook Aquifer primarily as a result of historical releases of hazardous materials at the Olin Corporation site at 51 Eames Street in Wilmington. Our question, which we will ask at the next Olin meeting: Is NDMA also present in the East Ditch of the Olin property? As the DEP has stated, the East Ditch of the Olin property flows into Halls Brook and then continues to flow into the Aberjona River.

In light of this new data on NDMA and its possible effect on the Phase III Remedial Action Plan for the Maple Meadow Brook Aquifer, DEP is suspending the deadline for public comments on the Phase III Remedial Action Plan. DEP will be issuing a letter requiring Olin and its consultants to re-evaluate the conclusions and recommendations in their report.

For more information on the above, contact The Woburn Neighborhood Association, Inc. at 10 North Maple Street in Woburn, MA 01801 or by phone (781) 935-2438 or by email at fitwalker@aol.com.

Sincerely,
Michael L. Raymond
WNA Chairman

Vote for Sullivan

Dear Editor:

I found it interesting to read an article on the new setback for the library plan. Throughout the summer we heard tales of misinformation and misstatements and things taken out of context. We had the town's management team scold us for not listening and abiding by their requests. We had professionals tell us that it was their way or no way. Well, after reading the latest about the future of the Wilmington library plans, the irony of it all is that there was never any money in place to even get the project off the ground without going to the taxpayers to totally fund another large capital project.

Oh yes, there was money from our tax surplus to pay for the architectural designs, but today those funds are being used to balance budgets and save jobs for the next three years or more. The petitioners of Special Town Meeting not only gave the people a real chance and that their wisdom proved correct, but we also saved the town more than half a million dollars, kept the library at the town common and stopped the needless destruction of an historical building.

The election that lies ahead will be critical in the way we want to shape the future of our community, its goals and the opportunities for its residents, taxpayers and business owners. How will we bridge the delicate gap between the have and have-nots, be more inclusive of the residents to the governing process, bring affordability back to our community, look at the cost of education and the state requirements that have changed the way we view the institution itself and finally move into the future in a unified direction?

The division that we see at our selectmen's meetings begs the question, is this where I see the future of the Town of Wilmington? I believe that it is time for a change. I believe that it is a time for a change on a number of different issues and leadership. The current seats that are being voted on in the next election represent a change in the way business is done and the status quo of the way things were. We now have an opportunity to shape and change for the interests of all. Let's not lose this opportunity to change for the better. There is a better way. Your vote does count.

Vote Suzanne Sullivan for Selectman.

A TIP FROM BERNARD'S BENCH

JEWELRY PRONGS

A common misconception is that jewelry prongs are intact simply because you see metal covering the gemstone. But prongs can flatten and thin over time. And when bumped they can easily break off. Let Bernard's Jewelers catch this ahead of time with a simple inspection, at no charge, and while you wait. Often the solution is an inexpensive re-tipping of the few prongs. This is a great value when compared to replacing a missing gemstone.

Ways to help your kids in these times of war

According to Dr. Donald MacMinnis, here are some suggestions that can help parents help deal with the issues of war with their children:

1. Discuss your children's concerns by first asking what they are hearing from peers, school and news. It's best not to fill them with fears they don't have, but also realize that concerns don't go away if we try to ignore them. If they are worried, say, "I can see you are feeling really scared. This is a hard time. I know we'll feel better when it's over." Avoid telling them "everything will be okay." If something does happen, you'll lose their trust.

2. Help them separate imagined from realistic fears. Entertainment and real events can blend together and their imaginations can run wild. When some kids saw the twin towers falling they insisted it was a movie. Others seeing the image repeated on the news thought the event was happening over and over again. Exposure to violent video games and movies makes it more difficult to understand the realities of war and destruction.

3. Don't hesitate to limit young children's exposure to the news. If they insist on watching, watch with them so that you can gauge their reactions and talk about it.

4. Watch for signs of sadness, aggression toward others, new fears that may seem unrelated to the war, or problems with making scary thoughts go away.

5. Your kids can sense how you are feeling. The greatest gift you can give them is your sense of well being, so handle your own stresses and emotions constructively. Share your fears with them, but do so with restraint.

6. Use this as an opportunity to teach life long social and emotional skills. Programs are available that offer kids lessons and songs to learn positive thinking, hopefulness, and prevent fearful or obsessive thoughts from overwhelming them.

7. Provide additional constructive outlets for children's feelings, such as drawing and writing stories and poems.

8. Allow some acting out of war play to vent frustrations, but don't let it become aggressive.

9. Find ways for your child to help others. Donate time, provide services, send letters and drawings, etc.

10. Keep normal routines and rules, and help them feel loved and safe by maintaining rituals of connection.

What exactly is NDMA? What can be done about it?

This public health statement is the summary chapter from the Toxicological Profile for n-Nitrosodimethylamine, a chemical that was recently discovered in four inactive wells within the Maple Meadow Brook Aquifer in Wilmington. It is one in a series of public health statements about hazardous substances and their health effects. This information is important because this substance may harm you. The effects of exposure to any hazardous substance depend on the dose, the duration, how you are exposed, personal traits and habits, and whether other chemicals are present. For more information, you may call the Agency for Toxic Substances and Diseases Registry (ATSDR) Information Center at 1-888-422-8737.

1.1 What is n-nitrosodimethylamine?

n-Nitrosodimethylamine is commonly known as NDMA. It is a yellow liquid which has no distinct odor. It is produced in the US only for use as a research chemical. NDMA was used to make rocket fuel, but this use was stopped after unusually high levels of this compound were found in air, water, and soil samples collected near a rocket fuel manufacturing plant. NDMA is, however, unintentionally formed during various manufacturing processes at many industrial sites and in air, water and soil from reactions involving other chemicals called alkylamines. Alkylamines are both natural and man-made compounds which are found widely distributed throughout the environment.

NDMA does not persist in the environment. When NDMA is released into the atmosphere, it breaks down in sunlight in a matter of minutes. When released to soil surfaces, NDMA may evaporate into air, break down upon exposure to sunlight, or sink into deeper soil. NDMA should break down within a few months in deep soil. When NDMA is released into water, it may break down upon exposure to sunlight or break down by natural biological processes. The rate of break down in water is not known.

1.2 How might I be exposed to n-nitrosodimethylamine?

Information suggests that the general population may be exposed to NDMA from a wide variety of sources, including environmental, consumer, and occupational sources. At this time, NDMA has been found in at least one out of 1177 hazardous waste sites on the National Priorities List (NPL) in the US. Under certain conditions, NDMA may be found in outdoor air, surface waters (rivers and lakes, for example), and soil.

The primary sources of human exposure to NDMA are tobacco smoke, chewing tobacco, diet (cured meats (particularly bacon), beer, fish, cheese, and other food items), toiletry and cosmetic products (for example, shampoos and cleansers), interior air of cars, and various other household goods, such as detergents and pesticides. In addition, NDMA can form in the stomach during digestion of alkylamine-containing foods. Alkylamines are naturally occurring compounds which are found in some drugs and in a variety of foods.

Infants may be exposed to NDMA from the use of rubber baby bottle nipples and pacifiers which may contain very small amounts of NDMA, from ingestion of contaminated infant formulas, and from breast milk of some nursing mothers. Very low levels of NDMA have been found in some samples of human breast milk.

Occupational exposure may happen in a large number of places including industries such as tanneries, pesticide manufacturing plants, rubber and tire manufacturing plants, alkylamine manufacture/use industries, fish processing industries, foundries, and dye manufacturing plants. Researchers making or handling NDMA may also be exposed to this compound if it passes through the rubber gloves they wear during laboratory work. NDMA has been found in groundwater samples, in amounts of 10 parts NDMA per billion parts of water, at one or more hazardous waste sites of the National Priorities List (NPL). No information is available about contamination of soil, drinking water, irrigation water, sewers, storm drains, or the human food chain with NDMA near NPL sites.

1.3 How can n-nitrosodimethylamine enter and leave my body?

NDMA can enter the body when a person breathes air that contains NDMA or when a person eats food or drinks water contaminated with NDMA. NDMA can also enter the body through the skin after contact with rubber articles that contain NDMA. Experiments in animals have shown that after being given by mouth, NDMA enters the bloodstream and goes to many organs of the body in a matter of minutes. In the liver, NDMA is broken down into other substances, most of which leave the body within 24 hours in air exhaled from the lungs and in urine, along with the NDMA that is not broken down. Little is known about what happens to NDMA that enters the body through the skin or through contaminated air. Although vapors of NDMA are broken down within minutes after exposure to sunlight, if NDMA is spilled at a waste site and evaporates, a person nearby can be exposed to NDMA before it disappears from the air. The most important and probably the most harmful way of coming into contact with NDMA seems to be eating contaminated food or drinking contaminated water.

1.4 How can n-nitrosodimethylamine affect my health?

NDMA is very harmful to the liver of animals and humans. People who were intentionally poisoned on one or several occasions with unknown levels of NDMA in beverage or food died of severe liver damage accompanied by internal bleeding. Animals that ate food, drank water, or breathed air containing high levels of NDMA over a period of days or several weeks also developed serious, non-cancerous, liver disease. When rats, mice, hamsters and other animals ate food, drank water, or breathed air containing lower levels of NDMA for periods more than several weeks, liver cancer and lung cancer as well as non-cancerous liver damage occurred. The high level short term and low level long-term exposures that caused non-cancerous liver damage and/or cancer in animals also usually resulted in internal bleeding and death.

Although there are no reports of NDMA causing cancer in humans, it is reasonable to expect that exposure to NDMA by eating, drinking, or breathing could cause cancer in humans. Mice that were fed NDMA during pregnancy had offspring that were born dead or died shortly after birth. However, it is not known whether NDMA could cause the death of human babies whose mothers are exposed during pregnancy. It should be realized that exposure to NDMA does not mean that any effect on health will definitely occur.

1.5 Is there a medical test to determine whether I have been exposed to n-nitrosodimethylamine?

The presence of NDMA can be detected in blood and urine by test, but this test is not usually available and has not been used as a test for human exposure or to predict possible health effects.

1.6 What levels of exposure have resulted in harmful health effects?

The levels of NDMA in air, water, or food that result in health effects in people are unknown. Short-term exposure of animals to air containing levels of 16 parts per million (ppm) NDMA produces liver damage and death. Toxic effects of long term exposure of animals to air containing NDMA are unknown. Short-term or long-term exposure of animals to water or food containing NDMA is also associated with serious effects, such as liver disease and death, at levels ranging from 5 to 50 ppm in water and 5 to 100 in food.

1.7 What recommendations has the federal government made to protect human health?

The EPA recommends that levels in lakes and streams should be limited to 0.00069 parts of n-nitrosodimethylamine per billion parts of water (0.00069 ppb) to prevent possible health effects from drinking water or eating fish contaminated with n-nitrosodimethylamine.

The EPA requires that spills or accidental releases of 10 pounds or more of n-nitrosodimethylamine be reported to the EPA.

The federal recommendations have been updated as of July 1999.

Recycling Committee is holding Brigade Contest

TEWKSBURY - Tewksbury Recycling Committee has a contest coming up, called "The Tewksbury Recycling Brigade. Pledge and Slash Trash Report."

Wilmington Family Counseling offers support group for military families

WILMINGTON - War news dominates everyone's life these past days. For people with loved ones serving in the Iraq war, the news takes on major significance. The military is providing support services for families of troops living near bases but less is available for extended families spread out across the United States. A support group for people who have loved ones serving in the war will be offered by the Wilmington Family Counseling Service starting Tuesday, April 1 at 6 p.m.

The support group will provide a place for those most affected by the war to come together to share their concerns and feel less isolated. Patricia Kenney, Ph.D., a Wilmington Family Counseling Service psychologist who has worked with crisis intervention strategies for many years, will lead the group.

"Everyone handles stress differently, but we know that most people benefit from having a support network of others who are sharing the same fears and concerns," Dr. Kenney explained. The group also will explore coping strategies to reduce anxiety and depression.

Those interested in participating are asked to call the Wilmington Family Counseling Service to register at 978-658-9889. There is no charge for the meetings which will be held weekly throughout the combat phase of the war.

Wilmington Arts Council to hold trip

WILMINGTON - The Wilmington Arts Council will sponsor a trip to the Museum of Fine Arts April 10. The show on display is "Impressions of Light: The French Landscape from Corot to Monet." The bus will leave from the Fourth of July Building parking lot at 5:30 p.m. and will pick up at the museum at 9:30. It would arrive back in Wilmington at 10 o'clock.

The Arts Council will be paying for the bus. Your cost will be the tickets to the show. They are $18 for seniors and $20 for adults. All tickets now include a free visit to the Museum's permanent collection within 30 days.

Please call Jane Crane at 978-658-9798 to reserve your seat. The bus is filling up fast!

Wilmington Board of Health's Annual Rabies Clinic will be held on Saturday, April 5th from 12 noon to 2 p.m. at the Public Buildings Department (formerly the location of the fire station on Church Street).

Backyard Birding by Hugh Wiberg

Ahhh... Spring at last! The grackles are back!

Some things in life are wonderfully predictable. Among them for us "birders" is the annual March return of several birds which spend their winters way down south. (Maybe they are smarter than we are!)

I know spring has arrived, no matter what the calendar may say, when the great, cackling mob of purple grackles and male redwinged blackbirds descends on our neighborhood here in North Wilmington. This happened on Monday, March 17, and, in spite of the racket they make, this annual event always picks up my spirits. I mentioned that the male redwing blackbirds are back; the females show up about two weeks later, after giving the males time to stake out their territory.

Other seasonal "checks" still to come include the male goldfinches molting back to immature bright yellow (another two to three weeks from now) and the evening chorus of the spring "peepers," which are tiny tree frogs. This welcome event begins about mid April, unless it warms up quickly before then. As this is written, Tuesday, March 25, I see several crocus and tulip shoots poking through the last remnants of snow. After the mind and body numbing winter we've had, all of these spring events will be much more welcome than usual. It is a good time to be alive!

Speaking of goldfinches, we have had an unbelievable flock of them here in our yard since early winter. I have no idea why we have attracted so many of them - they swoop into the backyard several times a day, stay for a half hour, and off they go. They take up every peg on the "feeders" (over 30 pegs on several large feeders) and then overflow to the ground under the feeders looking for "drops." I've tried to count them, and can only estimate their numbers as between 50 and 60. About three weeks ago, stu-from the Town Crier office called me to report seeing a dead pigeon-sized bird partially embedded in a snowbank near the Woburn Street School. He wondered if I might be able to check out his suspicion that it could be a small hawk. I drove over there and, sure enough, this bird was right there. It was, indeed, a hawk, and was easily identified as a "sharpie," the nickname for the sharp shinned hawk (pictures in accompanying photo.) I have no idea what caused its untimely demise, but I'll speculate that it may have flown into one of the several overhead telephone lines. Sharp shinned hawks are the most common of the small hawks in eastern Massachusetts. I see them in our yard three or four times over the course of each winter. Their prey are the small feeder birds, including finches, titmice, and juncos. We seem to be in a bit of a sharpie population irruption the last two or three years, and I invariably get calls from folks who have witnessed a kill in their yard, asking what can be done to prevent these intrusions. The answer is, nothing. These predator birds are a normal part of nature's "Grand Scheme," having to do with population controls.

Here are some of the many calls I have received since late February: Joanne McNeil of Lexington St. in Wilmington sees a Carolina wren frequently. (More and more of these pretty little wrens are showing up in Massachusetts, where prior to 1990 they were almost never seen north of central Connecticut.)

Gail Crosby of Shoreline Drive in Tewksbury called to ask what, if anything can be done to control the many grey squirrels which have taken over her yard. I made the usual suggestion that she purchase a feeder or two advertised as "squirrel proof," although my sense is that there may be no such thing as a 100 percent "squirrel proof" feeder. I am currently testing my own system of squirrel proof feeders in my yard, and, for three winters now, it appears to be working. Briefly, my two long tube feeders (12 stations on each) are (1) five feet above the ground, (2) nine feet out from the main trunk, and (3) covered from above by two, 16 inch metal baffles, separated by 18 inches. An occasional high IQ squirrel will get around a single baffle, but, so far, at least, they cannot successfully navigate around two well separated baffles. And yet, even as I write this, I concede that school is still out on this subject.

Dick Wetzler (lives on Fairmont Avenue in Wilmington) called early in March to report seeing a scarlet tanager in his yard. Dick is a veteran "birder" so I did not question this rare sighting. Scarlet tanagers, seen more frequently in central and western Massachusetts than hereabouts, are migrators, and this individual tanager (see page 261 in Peterson's "Eastern Birds") was an early returnee. Lastly, Ann Angus of Tewksbury called on March 8 to report that "her" robins were back, and that she had spotted a half dozen cedar waxwings, cleaning up some dried berries on a tree in her yard. She also saw a great blue heron walking around a small pond adjacent to her property.

A reminder - if you see an unusual bird in your yard, give me a call at 978-658-5852. Maybe I can help with an I.D. Back

Get ready for National Library Week

TEWKSBURY - Upcoming Story Times for children in grades K to two are on Tuesdays at 4 p.m. on April 1, 8, 15 and 29. Preschool Story Times, for children ages three to five, are on Wednesdays at 2 p.m. on April 2, 16 and 30 and on Thursdays at 11 a.m. on April 3, 10 and 27. Please note that there are no Story Times during school vacation weeks.

Celebrate National Library Week on Monday, April 7 at 10 a.m., when three to six-year-olds can make an Aquarium Craft. Registration begins on April 1. Continue the celebration on Saturday, April 12 at 10 a.m., when three to six-year-olds join us for a Rainbow Fish Story and Craft. Registration begins April 1.

On Friday, April 18 at 11 a.m., six to 12-year-olds are welcome to make an Owl Mask Craft. Registration begins April 8.

On Saturday, April 19 at 10 a.m., nine to 12-year-olds can join our Scrapbooking for Kids, hosted by Farah Natoli. Children need to take photos or other items to scrapbook. Registration begins April 8 and is limited to 10 children.

On Tuesday, April 22 at 2 p.m., six to 12-year-olds can Make A Sticker of their own. Registration begins April 8.

On Thursday, April 24 at 11 a.m., six to 12-year-olds can create their own Rainstick Craft. Registration begins April 8.

All crafts are limited to 16 children unless otherwise noted and take place in our Craft Room. Please call 978-640-4490 x204 or stop by the Children's Room desk to register. Please note that craft programs fill up very quickly, so please register early. All of our crafts have waiting lists, so if you find you cannot attend, please call the Children's Room and let us know so another child can have that space.

Our Book Discussion Groups are a great way to read new books and share your thoughts about them and meet new people at the same time! Don't forget to read the book before you go to the discussion! Grades three and four will be discussing School Spirit by Johanna Hurwitz on Wednesday, April 16 at 7 p.m. in the Craft Room. Snacks are provided and new members are always welcome. Stop by the Children's Room desk to pick up a copy of the book. Our grades five and six Book Discussion group will be meeting again in May.

To celebrate National Library Week, storyteller and musician Scott Kepnes is performing a concert for preschool children ages three to five on Wednesday, April 9 at 2 p.m. in the first floor meeting room. Join us for Scott's brand of folk rockin' fun! This program is sponsored by the Community Partnership for Children, which is funded by the Massachusetts Department of Education. Due to limited seating for this event, tickets will be required for admittance. Free tickets for anyone wishing to attend can be picked up at the Children's Room desk beginning April 2.

Don't forget to check out our National Library Week display of "What the Library Means to Me," on our bulletin board during the week of April 6 to 12. There is still time for you to submit a form to us on what you think! Come to the library to fill out a form or else let us know by filling out our online form at <http://www.tewksburypl.org/childrensroom.htm>

For more information on children's programs, call Noelle or Karen in the Children's Room at 978-640-4490 x204. You may also find out about our programs and services on the web at <http://www.tewksburypl.org/childrensroom.htm>

WPD to hold child safety seat inspections

WILMINGTON - The Wilmington Police Department will be conducting a special child safety seat inspection and installation and bicycle etching night at the Public Safety Building Tuesday, April 1 from 4 to 8 p.m.

The importance of properly fitted Child Safety Seats is self evident as a minor crash or even a sudden stop can seriously injure a child who is not riding in the right type of child safety seat. You can reduce the risk by buckling your child into a properly fitted safety seat each time you ride in the car. The Massachusetts Child Passenger Safety law requires children less than five years old and weighing less than 40 pounds to ride in a safety seat. Children under five and weighing more than 40 pounds must ride in a booster seat. Children five and older weighing more than 40 pounds must wear a safety belt. A police officer can stop your vehicle if a child 12 and under is not properly restrained.

With the spring here and children out on their bikes, we would like to protect them from unnecessary theft. The officer will etch a personal identification on the frame of the bike that will make it less desirable to thieves, and in the case of theft it will be easier to return to the owner if recovered.

If there are any questions please call the Police Department at 978-658-5071.

David M. Greeley

fiancee in Wilmington; father of two

ARLINGTON - David M. Greeley of Arlington, died March 20, 2003. He was the widower of Rajja Greeley (Haaksluoto) and son of Margaret Greeley of Whiting, NJ.

He was the father of Rita and Helen of Medford and is also survived by his fiancée Susan Durante of Wilmington. He was the brother of Nancy Kerwin, Donald Greeley of Whiting, NJ and Pat Weighorst of Avon, NJ.

Funeral services were scheduled for Wednesday at 9 a.m. from the Keefe Funeral Home, 5 Chestnut Street, Arlington followed by a funeral mass at St. Agnes' Church at 10 and burial in Holy Cross Cemetery, Arlington, N.J.

William T. Holland

Former co-owner of Sub-Way in Tewksbury; 46

TEWKSBURY - William T. "Bill" Holland, 46, a businessman in town for more than a decade, died unexpectedly Sunday, March 23, at his Tewksbury residence. He was the husband of Gail M. (Feeney) Holland, with whom he had celebrated a 21st wedding anniversary this past May 16th.

He was born in Malden, the son of the late Walder and Rose Marie (Busteed) Holland. He was raised in Malden and graduated from Malden high school in 1974. He remained active as a reunion organizer for the Malden H.S. Class of 74 Committee.

He co-owned the Sub-Way sandwich shop in Tewksbury for 13 years, and had also worked as a sales manager for General Electric in Woburn. He will be remembered for his joyous way of making people laugh.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Stacey R. Holland of Tewksbury; a son, Derek J. Holland of Tewksbury; a sister, Lynn-Ann Bernard of Tewksbury; three brothers-in-law and a sister-in-law, Brian and his wife Susan Feeney of Amherst, NH, Thomas Feeney of Maine, Ronald Bernard of Tewksbury; his father-in-law, Thomas F. Feeney of Billerica; and five nieces and nephews, Gina and Ronnie Bernard, Raneen Rooney, Allison and Kaitlin Feeney.

Voting absentee?

TEWKSBURY - Tewksbury Town Clerk Elizabeth Carey, has prepared the following concerning absentee voting. You may vote absentee if you are a registered voter and will be unable to vote at the polls because: you will be out of town during the hours the polls are open, because you have a physical disability, or because of religious beliefs.

You, or a family member, must apply in writing, for an absentee ballot from the office of the Town Clerk before noon on Friday, April 4, 2003. Application forms may be mailed or hand delivered.

You may request the official absentee ballot application form or you may use any form of written communication; a letter or postcard. Include your name, your address where you are listed as a registered voter, the precise address to which you want the ballot sent, and your signature.

Requesting to vote by mail: A ballot will be sent to any address that you specify. Be sure to apply early because the ballot must be sent by mail. The ballot may be returned by mail or hand delivered to the Town Clerk's office at the Town Hall. It must be received by 7 p.m. on Election Day.

Requesting to vote in person: The final day to request to vote in person is before noon on Friday, April 4, 2003. You may fill out the application for an absentee ballot and vote at the Town Clerk's Office, Town Hall, during the same visit. Office hours are Monday through Friday, 8:30 AM to 4:30 PM and Tuesday evening from 7 to 8:30. Please phone the Town Clerk's Office at 978-640-4355 if we can be of further assistance.

Charles Greeley Loring

attended Phillips Exeter Academy/Harvard University class of 1948; at 76

ANDOVER - Charles Greeley Loring, 76, of Andover, died peacefully at home Thursday, March 20, 2003, from complications associated with pancreatic cancer.

He is survived by his wife Priscilla Krey Loring, daughter Elisabeth (Lily) K. Loring of Baltimore, MD, son Peter K. Loring of Andover; former wife Victoria H. Loring of Concord; sons Stephen Loring and wife, Joan Gero of Washington, D.C.; David H. Loring and wife Kathy (VanForst) Loring, with grandchildren Evan and Aleks of Chocorua, N.H.; Charles G. Loring and Andrew G. Loring of Concord, Eric Loring of Ottawa, Canada and daughter Katharine P. Loring. Amador with grandchildren Suli and Michael of Cave Creek, AZ; also survived by his sisters Alice Page Pickman and husband, Anthony Pickman of Lincoln and Katharine Hadden of Tamworth, N.H.

Born in Boston, his father was Charles Greeley Loring, a prominent architect, and his mother was Katharine Page, daughter of Walter Hines Page, the American Ambassador to the Court of St. James 1913-1918. His childhood was split between Concord and his grandfather's home in Chocorua, N.H.

It was on frozen ponds and rivers of Concord and the snow-covered mountains in New Hampshire that Charlie acquired a life-long enthusiasm for skiing and hockey. He attended Phillips Exeter Academy and Harvard University graduating with the class of 1948 after Army service during WWII.

After spending a year at Brasenose College, Oxford University, where he had the opportunity to ski the Alps and play collegiate hockey, Charlie began a 42 year association with Cabot Corporation of Boston and retired in 1982. His Cabot career began with an apprenticeship at their carbon black plants in Pampa, Texas.

Returning to Boston he held various positions in sales and joint ventures including his relocation first to Iran as Managing Director (1978-1979), then to Brazil (1980-1982). In his later years at Cabot, Charlie was occupied with development projects in China and Slovakia.

As with many of his generation he was inspired by his country's role in WWII but troubled by its resistance to addressing social and economic injustices at home. For this reason, Charlie remained committed to working with local organizations in addressing social inequities: he was director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) in the mid 1960's and heavily involved in that decade's Civil Rights movement taking his sons on the march to Washington in August 1963.

Charlie devoted his time, energy and love to his family. He was a quiet man who radiated extraordinary patience, selflessness and kindness.

In lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be made to Andover Comm. for a Better Chance, P.O. Box 212, Andover, MA 01810, or a youth hockey association of your choosing.

Arrangements were under the direction of the Nichols Funeral Home of Wilmington. At the family's request there are no calling hours scheduled.

A memorial service with reception celebrating his life will be held at the Faith Lutheran Church, 360 Main St., Andover, Ma Saturday, March 29 at 2 p.m.

George F. Revelas

38 years in Wilmington; Acton-Boxborough Regional School band director; member of Music Educators National Conference, Mass Music Educators Assoc.; at 65

WILMINGTON - George F. Revelas of Wilmington, died Sunday, March 23, 2003 at Lowell General Hospital. He was 65 years old.

Born in Everett, he was the son of Mildred (Travalini) Revelas of Revere and the late George P. Revelas.

He had lived in Wilmington for 38 years and was a graduate of Everett High School. He earned his undergraduate degree from UMass Lowell and received his masters from Boston University.

Mr. Revelas was employed as band director for the Acton-Boxborough Regional Schools and belonged to the Music Educators National Conference and the MA Music Educators Assn.

He was the husband of Judith A. (Pulson) Revelas and father of Peter Revelas and his wife Amy of Simpsonville, SC; Stephen Revelas and his wife Karen of Ventura, CA and Elena Ferreira and her husband Humberto of Tewksbury. He was the brother of Eugene Revelas and his wife Anna of Malden and Diane Ascoli and her husband Joseph of Cranston, RI.

Three grandchildren, Nicholas and Max Revelas and Matthew Ferreira also survive.

Funeral services are scheduled for 9 a.m. Saturday, March 29 from the Cota Funeral Home 335 Park St., No. Reading, followed by a funeral mass at St. Thomas Church, 126 Middlesex Avenue, Wilmington and burial in Wildwood Cemetery, Wilmington.

Friends may call at the funeral home Friday from 2 to 4 and from 7 to 9 p.m.

Donations made in George's memory to the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute, Head and Neck Oncology Dept., 10 Brookline Place West, 6th Floor, Brookline, MA 02445.

of terrorism."

On average, Wilmington residents polled dedicated well over an hour to viewing coverage of the war through television, newspapers, and radio, with one individual admitting to spending more than eight hours a day glued to CNN. Without exception, those who were polled presently supported President Bush's handling of the situation, even if they were not initially convinced that the nation should engage.

"I was unsure at first, but Bush is doing as well as can be expected, and I think our troops should be supported no matter what," Robin Lagace stated.

Unconditional support of our troops was a sentiment shared by everyone polled. While support for the war and support for the troops can be seen by some as very separate issues, several residents expressed frustration with anti-war protesters.

Hardy, for example, couldn't fathom how someone who is up on the events, and has been exposed to the evidence presented, could demonstrate against the war. He categorized the protesters as "profiles in cowardice."

Boschetti felt that Michael Moore, a film maker who won an Oscar for Best Documentary during the Academy Awards on Sunday night, went a step too far when, during his acceptance speech, he blasted Bush on everything from the 2000 election results to his stated reasons for war. Moore was greeted with more boos than applause.

"I didn't like the guy at the Oscars opening his big mouth," Boschetti stated. "That was ridiculous."

Wilmington hopes, beyond all else, that the end of this war comes quickly and that our sons and daughters and brothers and sisters come home safely with as few casualties as possible.

"We must remember what we can all do in our daily lives that can have a positive effect on peace," resident Robbin Gooding stated. "It all starts with the individual."

McAlduff chosen for superintendent

Marilyn Lamson based her vote in favor of McAlduff on the profile that was developed by Future Management, the firm that worked with the search committee, and the feedback of people who had met McAlduff and others who sought the position.

McAlduff has been superintendent at his current post for the past six years, a length of time that he says feel like 18 because of the three towns for which he is responsible. The Wilmington School District appealed to him because of its challenge and proximity to his home in Lexington.

During his interview with the School Committee, McAlduff cited an effective and open staff and the meeting of state initiatives and state-driven curriculum changes as two examples of what makes a healthy school. He also stated his support for the teacher mentor program in his district.

"Building positive relationships is important," McAlduff noted.

During his interview with the School Committee, McAlduff named as his goals the development of assessment tools, the communication with parents at home through email and the progress of curricula at the elementary level. He stated that he sees curriculum as part of the whole Grades K-12 picture.

"A cooperative effort at every level is important," McAlduff told the School Committee.

McAlduff also told the School Committee that, if named superintendent, accountability standards and MCAS results are two things that he would seek to enhance or improve. He added that, for him, important core values can be found in "consistent, constant and honest dialogue."

During his interview, McAlduff told the committee that he was impressed with the use of school buildings in Wilmington for non-scholastic activities. He sees the use of public buildings for school purposes as the strength of a community.

According to McAlduff, Wilmington is a "jewel in the rough (that is) ready to be shined up."

"The potential is enormous," he told the School Committee.

McCoy submits petition for building moratorium ed nearly 400. The submission of petitions for following articles must have at least 100 signatures. McCoy informed his colleagues that he had acquired nearly triple that amount.

"I've gone out and received more than 450 signatures from residents in the community to call a special town meeting," McCoy stated.

Selectmen Chairman Robert Cain asked McCoy if he would consider holding back on his petitions and submitting them for the special town meeting that will likely be held this fall. McCoy answered that he preferred to "go forward with it," for he believed that such an event would be as well attended as the one that was held last August. At that special meeting, voters appeared in droves to settle whether or not a new library was to be built in Wilmington.

Before the debate, selectmen tried to pinpoint the date by which the meeting would need to be held. By law, the Board of Selectmen has 45 days to declare a properly petitioned special town meeting. At the meeting on Monday night, the main question revolved around when the clock would officially start ticking on those 45 days.

McCoy suggested a target date of Monday, June 9, which would make 45 days from April 28, which would be the first time that the selectmen will meet after the Board of Registrars would possibly certify the petitions at its meeting two weeks earlier. Selectman Robert Palmer informed McCoy that June 9 would not work for him because he would be out of state.

Town Manager Michael Caira suggested that the time table of 45 days is supposed to begin upon the submission of the petitions to selectmen. According to that scenario, selectmen would have to set the special meeting to take place by Thursday, May 8 at the latest. Town Counsel Newhouse agreed with Caira.

The Office of the Attorney General is the final authority on the legality and appropriateness of articles passed at town meetings. McCoy was urged to submit documents alongside his petitions to the attorney general for review, but he felt that he had already done enough. In fact, he maintained that he was being made to jump through more hoops than the average petitioner.

"I don't know why this is being treated any differently," McCoy stated. "This is what it is. I don't know how much more you want me to say."

Cain asked McCoy if he would withdraw his petitions if the attorney general found them inappropriate.

"I would assume that I would have no choice but to withdraw them," McCoy answered. "But I have all the confidence in the world that they're going to be acceptable."

McCoy's idea for a moratorium is a controversial one, so much so that it fueled much of the rancor that was apparent between him and his opponents during the election that was held last spring. Proponents of the moratorium believe that the measure would slow development down and allow the town to take stock of the direction in which it is headed in terms of character, open space and water quality. Opponents of the moratorium believe that the restrictions would violate the rights of property owners and sap income generated for the town.

In other developments at the selectmen meeting, the board voted three to two in favor of executing a new three-year contract for Town Manager Michael Caira. The contract, which Selectmen Raymond Lepore and Michael McCoy opposed, provides Caira with a 2.5 percent raise during the second and third years of the contract. (He will not receive a raise during the first year.) Furthermore, the contract allows for Caira to be paid what remains of his three-year salary if at any point he is fired. (For example, if Caira were to be let go one year into this new contract, he would be paid his salary for the remaining two that are reflected in the contract.)

Also at the selectmen meeting, Caira requested that families inform the Town Hall if a member of their household is serving in the United States Armed Forces during this time of war. Those families will be presented with a Blue Star Service Banner that can be hung in the window of their home, so that passersby can see that one of their loved ones is defending the freedoms of this country.

Interested families should contact Phyllis Vieira, the Secretary of the Veterans Committee, at the Town Hall at 121 Glen Road. Vieira can also be reached at 978-658-3675.

Wilmington Library Notes

by Christina Stewart

Welcome Spring with Jackie Stone

WILMINGTON - Jackie Stone, a master gardener, will help you forget the long cold winter and welcome spring with her slide lecture "A Season of Perennials" on Thursday, April 3 at 7 p.m. Ms. Stone holds a BS in Biology and Chemistry and served as chairman of "Massachusetts Gardens on Tour," an 11 day open garden extravaganza, sponsored by the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts. She is knowledgeable of both garden design and the plants that New Englanders love (and those they should avoid!). Her slide lecture will present a selection of reliable perennials and shrubs that will bring joyous color and texture to your garden, from early spring into winter. So if you love beautiful flowers and gardens, and are ready for spring, go to the library on April 3 for this program sponsored by the Friends of the Library.

Friends of the library annual meeting

The Friends of the Library held its annual meeting Thursday, March 20 and elected the following officers to serve on the Executive Board: Eileen MacDougall, president and newsletter chair; Jim Lemay, vice-president; Barbara Alevaras, recording secretary; Janet Cahill, corresponding secretary; Martha Stevenson, treasurer, Terry McDermott, publicity chair; Karen Campbell, fundraising chair; Joy Lemay, membership chair; Charlotte Stewart, hospitality co-chair; Marion Nee, hospitality co-chair. President Eileen MacDougall highlighted the donations and support that the friends gave the library this past year including an outdoor media drop for overnight video returns, a couch for the Teen Services area, a sandwich board sign for advertising library programs, museum passes, puppets for the Children's Room and financial support for many adult and children's programs. The Friends of the Library continue to provide critical support to the library making it the best it can be for the community.

Jackie Davis, a Wilmington resident and a professional interior decorator, was the guest speaker at the annual meeting. She provided her top 10 decorating tips and gave the audience lots of ideas for transforming a room with existing furnishings.

Deadline for poetry contest
The deadline to submit your poem for the library's annual poetry contest is Friday, March 28. The 2003 theme is "Recreation." You can submit your entry via the library's website at www.wilmlibrary.org.

Strategies outlined for confronting NDMA discovery prompted to do so by a study in California that found that NDMA can be formed within water distribution systems that feature sources of nitrogen within them. In Wilmington's case, nitrogen has entered the town wells from the Olin site in the form of ammonia. Furthermore, NDMA is a byproduct of the chemical and plastics industries, both of which have operated at the Olin property.

"We felt that it was a good idea to take that one chemical and front-load it beyond the other chemicals we were looking at and do that testing," Johnson said.

To do that, Johnson and DEP representative Christopher Pyott first had to turn to the department's Office of Research and Standards and request that it establish a new drinking water standard to use should NDMA be found in Wilmington. Once that was established, the DEP instructed Olin to test its property for NDMA in January of this year. The sampling was done last month.

On February 28, the preliminary test results arrived. The DEP learned that well 87D in the aquifer had a considerable concentration of NDMA in it. According to Johnson, the results proved "far greater" than the samples that were taken closer to the Olin site last summer.

"This was surprising news to us," Johnson admitted.

The DEP called town officials and requested an appropriate response. Both parties agreed that the Town Park well, which was operating at the time, should be taken off line as a precaution. Within ten days, test results showed that NDMA was not found in the Town Park well.

Alas, at four inactive wells at Butters Row and Chestnut Street, NDMA was discovered in quantities of 32 to 166 parts per trillion. The town needed only to take action if those levels hit 200 parts per trillion, but Town Manager Michael Cairra nonetheless ordered that the four wells remain off line indefinitely.

Johnson contacted the Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry (ATSDR), which is charged with preventing the adverse effects that known hazardous substances could have on people and the environment. Johnson asked the agency if it could be a resource as the DEP, Olin and the town proceed to deal with the presence of NDMA in the community. The agency agreed.

According to Johnson, Olin has been instructed by the DEP to perform additional tests on a "fast track basis." He stated that further research is necessary to establish why the chemical is present in the aquifer to such a degree.

"We don't have complete answers for that," Johnson noted.

The validated results of the tests are expected by the end of this month.

Water Superintendent Woods also addressed the public at the selectmen meeting. He began his presentation by noting that Wilmington has had to shut down five of its nine wells.

"We are trying to make do with only four wells," Woods stated.

According to Woods, those four wells have been completely cleaned, so that the most water can be drawn from them for the short term. He believes that such a cleaning will serve the town until September or October, which is when the wells will likely start clogging again.

Upon learning about the discovery of NDMA, Woods met with the DEP water supply division and requested that it declare a state of emergency, which would allow the town to purchase water from neighboring towns and the Massachusetts Water Resource Authority (MWRA).

Woods also stated that he has spoken with the MWRA Planning Director to set the stage for Wilmington to use the authority's water. That process, which Woods called a "formality," should be complete by May.

Woods reported that his department has moved to make underground pipe connections to Woburn so that its water can be used as well. On Monday, it was his hope that such connections would be in place by the end of this week.

Woods has also ordered temporary piping to be laid across the ground from hydrant to hydrant for a connection between the town and a supply of water that is available from Burlington.

Furthermore, there are currently two existing underground connections that link Wilmington to available water in North Reading.

According to Woods, Woburn, Burlington and North Reading have all authorized Wilmington for the use of their water.

"Just a phone call is all it takes to do that," Woods said.

Woods said that he does not anticipate problems with the water supply until May, which is when the weather warms up and residents seek to wash their cars and tend to their lawns. He stated that he will keep mandatory watering restrictions in place to dictate on which days residents can use water for such purposes. If the demand for water peaks too high, Woods maintained that a ban on the resource could take place.

According to Woods, residents and business owners can also pitch in to mitigate the situation by fixing leaks on their properties.

"You'd be amazed how much water can be lost through drips in various faucets, both inside and outside of the home, and toilets," Woods stated.

EDITOR'S NOTE: On the front page of last week's edition of the Town Crier, the headline for the top story about the discovery of NDMA in the four inactive wells was inaccurate in the chronology that it stated. The Town Crier regrets the error.

Speaking of the League of Women Voters, the organization will hold its own event, called "Conversations with the Candidates," on Tuesday, April 8. The meeting, which will take place at the Wilmington Methodist Church, will begin at 7 p.m. and conclude at 10 p.m. WCTV will cover the event.

Roundtable discussions during the event will allow residents to casually interact with candidates and grill them on where they stand on the issues. At one point during the three hours, unopposed candidates for other offices will be able to present to voters a brief biographical presentation about themselves.

Opportunities will also be made available for voters to ask questions to Michael Baker, Mark DiGiovanni and Anthony Quincy Vale, who are all running for one of the two three-year seats that are available on the School Committee this spring.

During the final segment of "Conversations with the Candidates," selectmen candidates will be granted a moment to summarize and report to the audience what was discussed during the roundtable forum.

According to Ruth Kennedy, the Executive Director of WCTV, the March 31 debate will air repeatedly on Channel 22 during the weeks that lead to the Annual Town Election on Saturday, April 19. In addition, WCTV will also repeatedly broadcast five-minute "candidate statements," in which the hopefuls will be able to summarize their platforms to viewers.

Tewksbury & Wilmington coaches unite

Football summer camp for both towns

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

One of the few aspects of sports that makes it so unique is the competitive nature between the participants and the teams. If that competitiveness is done correctly, there's a certain amount of respect for that opposing player, coach or team.

But learning that competitive nature, and respect doesn't come over night. Both the Wilmington and Tewksbury High football coaching staffs have built a solid reputation over the years of having the utmost respect for one another's program. Between the rivals of the tradition played on Thanksgiving Day Morning for the past six plus decades, the two towns have formed a very unique bond, no matter who comes home with the victory on that certain day. That bond is respect.

Both Bob Almeida and Brian Aylward would like nothing better to form that respect athletes have for one another at a young age. The two head coaches have joined together to bring the first ever Redmen/Wildcat youth football camp to be held in June at the Livingston Street complex in Tewksbury. For those several days, the coaches will stress respect, competitiveness, fair play and of course fun, while they also teach proper skills to each and every individual.

"I don't think that this camp will take away from the competitiveness of the Thanksgiving game," said Redmen coach Brian Aylward. "The kids on both teams know that the game is not about them, or about the team. The game is about tradition, and what it means to both towns. This camp will be good. We're going to have a lot of fun."

"It's as unique as you'll see. It promotes the sportsmanship where it matters most to the younger kids. Our main focus is to promote the game of football for both towns where kids can generate friendships they'll have for the rest of their lives. I know I have made a lot of them with the Wilmington guys - the Campbells, Tony Cutone and Brian Olson, who never lets me down that he scored the game winning touchdown on a trick play against us my sophomore year. Stuff like this is something that's great and it grows and lets you do some great things in life. It's about the history. Our focus is to put together a good quality program, a camp for young kids and make it as personal as it can be with tons of coaches and current players helping out kids who live in just these two towns."

The camp will be run from June 23-26, with a raindate scheduled for June 27th. The cost is $99.00 per child. The time of the camp will be from 9 am to 2 pm through those four days. A lunch will be offered (but not required), and there's also a snack bar where the kids can purchase drinks, etc. However, the big sticking point is whom the camp is open too.

"It's for kids who'll be entering grades two through eight," said Wildcat coach Bob Almeida. "Everyone is in there own age group - seven year olds won't be drilling with 13 year olds. It's a non-contact camp. The kids won't be wearing helmets and shoulder pads, they'll be in shorts, t-shirts and cleats. We want to develop skill at this camp and teach the kids the right way to throw, to run patterns, to catch the ball and so forth. We want to give the kids the confidence they need. We don't care if the kids have youth football experience or if they don't have any experience in the game. For this camp, you don't need to be at any certain level."

Both coaches hope to get around 200 kids for the four days. Besides the two head coaches, both of their entire staffs will be on hand, as well as a handful of their current players.

"That's the great thing about this camp," said Aylward. "This isn't going to be a camp where the costs goes up every year, or one that there's so many kids who don't get any attention. It's not going to be a camp that asks for mammoth amount of money so a pro player comes down to sign autographs. It's not about that. The plan is to have a coach will eight or nine kids in the same age level working together in different situations, drills or games."

Aylward also said that he spoke to Tewksbury youth football President Frank Ferrelli and asked him to supply three or four of the current youth coaches in town to join in as well. That way, Aylward said all of the coaches are in sync, and both he and his staff can help the volunteer coaches or vice versa. But it seems like already everyone is together on this.

"[Aylward and I] have such respect for one another and each other's program," said Almeida. "We're pretty much the same on teaching skills and techniques and the kids get a little bit of both of our perspectives. You know that no one teaches a better passing game than Brian and his staff. I think this is going to be a special camp for just Wilmington and Tewksbury kids. There's going to be kids as young as seven years old and they'll be able to form friendships together for many years to come."

As for the camp itself, both coaches say it'll be run with station to station drills, teaching the proper way to play the game, with many games, races and just plain old fun together.

"What we are trying to preach is to teach the game of football the right way," said Almeida. "We want to give the kids the background and make sure this camp spends more time than any others on the skill development. There will be individual contests, a game a day whether it be tag rush, or throwing games or obstacle courses."

Added Aylward, "Both Bob and I are on the same page. We both know what this camp is all about. The cost of 99 dollars is always going to remain - it's never going up. I'm pretty excited about it."

To sign-up for the camp, or if you have questions about it you are urged to contact either Coach Brian Aylward at 978-658-3743 or Coach Bob Almeida at 781-910-4376.

Wilmington High School varsity wrestlers, from left to right Derek Hanley, Roman Walsh and Jordan Weiner will be off to Cleveland, Ohio this weekend to participate in the National High School tournament. To be able to go on the trip, the wrestlers needed some kind of people to donate some money and that's exactly what the Wilmington Police Association did behind Union President Butch Alpers, who is seen here presenting the check to Walsh. Favreau jumps record to 2-0 Bridgewater State sophomore right-hander Scott Favreau (Tewksbury, MA) has been named the Massachusetts State College Athletic Conference (MASCAC) Baseball Pitcher of the Week for his performance during the Bears recent southern trip to Cocoa Beach, Florida.

Favreau tossed his first collegiate no-hitter in his first start of the Spring as the Bears defeated Grace College 15-0. The Tewksbury, Mass native then hurled a complete game, 7-0 shutout over the University of Virginia-Wise in BSC's final game on the trip.

In 14 innings of work this season, Favreau has yet to yield a run as he is currently a perfect 2-0 and sporting an incredible 0.00 ERA. He also recorded 20 strikeouts in the two starts, including a 12 strikeout performance in the win over UVA-Wise.

Thomas completes terrific season on blue line for UNH

Kristen Thomas of Wilmington, completed her junior season with the University of New Hampshire women's ice hockey team March 16 when the Wildcats finished as runner up at the Women's Hockey East Championship. UNH finished the season with a 27-7-2 record - the second highest win total in the 26 year history of the program and a #7 national ranking.

Thomas, a defenseman and co-captain whose 2002-03 Women's Hockey East honors included All Star First Team and Player of the Month for October, played in 33 of 36 games. She tied for the team lead in assists with 23, tied for sixth in points with 27 and was fourth in plus/minus at +30. Thomas is ranked 11th in the nation in points per game for defenseman (0.82) and is 25th overall in assists (0.70 per game). Her season highlights include a nine game point scoring streak at the start of the season as well as twice matching her career highs in both assists (three and points (three)). In her three year career, Thomas has recorded 23 goals and 55 assists for 78 points in 103 games. The 78 points ranks eighth of UNH's all time scoring leaders for defensemen.

Squirt "A" hockey team fit to be tied

The Wilmington Squirt A Wildcats sponsored by Focaccia's Restaurant squared off with the Newburyport Squirt A team @ Ristuccia in Wilmington on Friday March 21st in Valley League action.

Wilmington came out flying and demonstrated a clear and distinct advantage early. The Cat's Danny Cushing scored on a breakaway early in the first period. Danny's goal gave Wilmington a 1-0 lead and his goal was assisted by Brian Hurley and Brett Kidik. The Danny Cushing show continued when he fired a missile to the top corner by a screened Newburyport goalie giving the Cat's a 2-0 lead. Danny's second goal was assisted by Bret Kidik and Chris Robertson. Newburyport then got on the board with a breakaway goal and then scored again late off a rebound to tie the game at 2-2 after the first period. Wilmington goalie Tyler Stillings played well again and kept the Cat's in the game!

In the second period the Wilmington defense of Brendan O'Brien, Chris Robertson, Brian Hurley and Kevin Barry did a great job of limiting the skilled Newburyport forwards from penetrating the Wilmington defensive zone. The only goal in the second period was a fluke goal scored by Newburyport giving them the lead 3-2 after two periods.

Early in the third period the Wilmington forwards of Kyle Creedon, Danny Cushing, Sean Keane, Brian Fitzpatrick, Peter Leighton, Jeffree Harris, Brett Kidik and Matt Larffarello kept the pressure on Newburyport and would not be denied. Wilmington tied the game when Matt Larffarello scored a big goal early in the third period tying the game at 3-3. Matt's goal was assisted by Brian Fitzpatrick and Kyle Creedon. Newburyport then scored again to take a 5-4 lead before Wilmington's Danny Cushing notched a hat trick giving the Cat's a dramatic come from behind 5-5 tie. Danny's third goal was assisted by Sean Keane and Jeffree Harris.

The Wilmington Squirt "A" Wildcats took on previously unbeaten Winthrop on Saturday March 22nd at Hockeytown in Saugus in Dual State action.

Wilmington started with a bang as Danny Cushing continued his torrid scoring pace by breaking in alone and converting to put Wilmington up 1-0. Danny's goal was assisted by Sean Keane and Bret Kidik. The Wilmington defense of Chris Robertson, Kevin Barry, Brendan O'Brien and Danny Cushing were very strong and limited Winthrop to very few quality scoring opportunities.

In the second period Winthrop did convert on a breakaway to even the score at 1-1. Wilmington goalie Tyler Stillings held the fort and the second period ended 1-1.

Early in the third period Winthrop converted on a "two on one" and went ahead 2-1. However, the Wilmington forwards of Brian Hurley, Patrick Boudreau, Sean Keane, Bret Kidik, Brian Fitzpatrick, Peter Leighton, Jeffree Harris, Kyle Creedon and Matt Larffarello kept the pressure on hoping to notch the equalizer. With a minute to go Wilmington pulled their goalie and Danny Cushing scored for the Cat's with four seconds to play salvaging a tie that felt like a win. The final score was 2-2 and Danny's second goal was assisted by Jeffree Harris and Peter Leighton.

The Cat's squared off with Concord/Carlisle on Sunday March 23rd at Methuen High School in Dual State action.

The first period ended with neither team scoring but their was plenty of action. The Wilmington forward lines of Kyle Creedon, Patrick Boudreau, Sean Keane, Brian Fitzpatrick, Peter Leighton, Jeffree Harris, Bret Kidik, Danny Cushing and Matt Larffarello clearly had the better of scoring chances but could not convert.

Early in the second period Wilmington's Jeffree Harris scored on his own rebound to put the Cat's up 1-0. Jeff's goal was assisted by Matthew Larffarello and Peter Leighton. Concord/Carlisle then scored off a scrum in front of Wilmington goalie Tyler Stillings evening the score at 1-1. Then with only a minute to go in the second period Concord/Carlisle went ahead 2-1.

Early in the third period Concord/Carlisle converted on a "two on one" and took a commanding 3-1 lead but the Cat's wouldn't give up. Wilmington was playing it's third game in as many days and it showed. The Cat's defense of Brian Hurley, Brendan O'Brien, Kevin Barry and Chris Robertson limited the Concord/Carlisle scoring opportunities but Wilmington had nothing left in the tank. Concord Carlisle was awarded a rare penalty shot late in the game and goalie Tyler Stillings stopped the scoring bid but the damage was done. The final score was 3-1 Concord/Carlisle...

The Squirt "A" players and parents would like to thank Focaccia's Restaurant and their dedicated coaches who volunteer their time and experience to help make a difference.

Tewksbury Bantam A's take three more points

Perhaps saving their best for last, the Tewksbury Bantam A team kept up their late season surge by notching a tie and a win this past week.

Wednesday's 4-4 Valley League tie against Reading saw the Redmen rally with just under two minutes remaining in the game to salvage a point. Goal scorers were Justin O'Brien with two, John Cahalane and Jonhenry Holt. Assists were earned by Cahalane (two), Holt and defenseman Louis Iovine, Tim Dooley and Dan Mazzie (up from PeeWee A to help out) were strong on defense as well as Iovine. Goalie C.J. Walsh held the fort in goal turning aside a flurry of would be go-ahead goals by Reading in the closing minutes.

On Thursday the team played one of its best games of the season, turning back Haverhill by a 6-1 score in the Dual State League. John Cahalane and Kevin Aguiar scored a pair apiece. Jonhenry Holt and

Anthony Moccia scored one apiece.

Playmaker Ryan Mooney dished out three assists, including a very unselfish perfect setup to Moccia to end the game. Other helpers went to Aguiar, Robert Cuzzi, Brett Little. Steve Dame played strong at the Tewksbury blue line in front of winning goalie C.J. Walsh and Billy Stuart.

WHS Hall of Fame deadline this weekend

Wilmington High School Hall of Fame Committee has announced that the nomination deadline for this year is Saturday, March 30, 2002. All nominations must be postmarked no later than the deadline in order to be considered.

Established in 1990, Wilmington's Hall of Fame honors the school's athletes, coaches, benefactors, and special contributors.

The selection process is based on the rule that the candidates for induction been evaluated on what they did in sports while at Wilmington High School exclusively. Achievements in sports while at college or at the professional level will have no bearing on these election committee's deliberations.

To be eligible for nomination, the athletes must have participated in at least one varsity sport. Athletes nominated for the Hall of Fame must have graduated at least 10 years prior to nomination.

All nominations should be sent to: Ms. Susan Hardimon secretary, WHS Athletic Hall of Fame, Wilmington High School, 159 Church Street, Wilmington, MA 01887.

Tewksbury Sixth grade girls hoop team takes two

The Tewksbury Sixth Grade Travel team went out in style as they won both of their games at the Annual Shamrock Tournament which was played in Billerica over St. Patrick's Day weekend. The girls defeated Westford 29-19 in a game Friday night, and the defeated Wilmington on Saturday by a score of 29-15. Both Westford and Wilmington were undefeated during the regular season.

In the first game against a determined Westford team, Tewksbury played a very tough defense that shut down the passing lanes while their dominating rebounding usually limited Westford to only one shot. The combination of good passing and patience contributed to some easy baskets as well as several fast break hoops.

Scoring for Tewksbury were Jessica Pagonis with 12 points, Danielle DiPierro with seven, Caitlin DeFrancesco with four, Meaghan Billings, four and Caitlin MacNeil with two. Also contributing with tough team defense, strong rebounding and good passing were Michelle Layne, Mariah Messina, Samantha Fernandez, Bianca Barboza, Casey Malone, Rachael London and Katie Day.

Saturday's game was a battle between the River Valley 6B North (Tewksbury) and 6B South (Wilmington) champions. The games started off slowly for both teams, but Tewksbury finally got things rolling against the scrappy Wildcats and held an 11 to 7 half time lead. Tewksbury put together a tough, nose-to-the-grindstone defense that did not allow any easy shots.

They gathered up 46 rebounds as a team, including 11 offensive rebounds, which led to second shots and conversions. The girls went to the floor for every loose ball and contested every shot. Their determination and desire paid off giving them a victory on their final game of the season.

Scoring for Tewksbury were Caitlin DeFrancesco with 11 points, Danielle DiPierro with eight, Michelle Layne, Casey Malone, Caitlin MacNeil and Meaghan Billings all with two points; Jessica Pagonis, Samantha Fernandez with one point apiece. Contributing with tough defense and strong rebounding were Mariah Messina, and Bianca Barboza. The team missed the scrappy play of Katie Day and Rachael London who were unable to play due to illness.

This season began with a group of girls who played as individuals, but through hard work and learning about team spirit and good sportsmanship, have become one smooth running unit. They all played on different in-town teams against each other, but bonded on this travel team and the results are self-evident.

The coaches would like to thank each and every girl for her dedication and hard work and for making this a very enjoyable and successful season. We are very proud to be associated with you all and hope you have all enjoyed yourselves. Likewise, we would like to thank families and friends, whose support and encouragement allowed us to enjoy a successful season. Great job, girls!

Squirt C's take home tournament championship

The Tewksbury Squirt C's, sponsored by IRA Chrysler Jeep on Route 38, Tewksbury, traveled to a tournament at Waterville Valley March 7-9 and returned home as champions. The team opened up the tournament on Friday with a disappointing 5-4 loss to Malden. Tewksbury built a 4-2 lead with goals from Michael Walsh, Joe Samson, Allison Noyes and Nicholas Ashley. Assisting on the goals were Kyle Murphy, Frank Chiara and Joe Samson. Although Malden squeaked ahead in the last minute of play Tewksbury played a strong game in front of goaltender Jimmy Barry.

On Saturday Tewksbury took on a previously undefeated Norwood team and dominated the game to come out on top 3-1. Allison Noyes led the scoring with a pair of goals while Joe Samson added one. Nicholas Ashley had two assists while Joe Samson and Frank Chiara each had one.

Tewksbury played an outstanding game with all around great fore checking and back checking. Goaltender Jimmy Barry made some unbelievable saves to keep Norwood at bay. Defensemen Nicholas Ashley, Tyler Dempsey, Jared Doherty, Matthew Montecalvo and Steven Simas did their jobs well by keeping the puck in the offensive zone for much of the game and keeping Norwood's scoring chances to a minimum. Also helping out their teams with some superb play setups and "on the money" passes were Neil Dave, John DiGiorgio, Scott Middleton, Kyle Murphy, Michael Walsh and Tyler White.

Next up for the Squirt C's was a must win game against Framingham to propel them into the finals. They came through with flying colors by defeating Framingham neatly 3-0. A confident Jimmy Barry quickly stopped the few shots on goal that Tewksbury allowed.

This game again showed Tewksbury at their best with an all around, above and beyond effort by the entire team. Tewksbury's three goals were pumped in by Joe Samson, Scott Middleton and Allison Noyes. Allison also added an assist. Tyler White did his job well by chipping in two assists of his own. This game was so well played that the highlights are too numerous to list. Just let it be said that every member of this team did their own personal best.

An ecstatic Tewksbury team returned to the ice just five hours later for a rematch with the now 25-1 Norwood team. As one parent aptly put it "doesn't 25 and 2 just roll off your tongue?" And wouldn't you know - Tewksbury beat Norwood for a second time in as many days 2-0.

This was goaltender Jimmy Barry's day to shine as he chalked up his second shutout of the day. Jimmy deserves a lot of credit for his solid stability at backing up his team and keeping the puck out of his net. Frank Chiara and Joe Samson, who were helped out by their follow offensive teammates John DiGiorgio, Neil Dave, Scott Middleton, Allison Noyes, Kyle Murphy, Michael Walsh and Tyler White, scored Tewksbury's hard earned goals. Doing an outstanding job at the blue line were defensemen Tyler Dempsey, Steven Simas, Nicholas Ashley, Matthew Montecalvo and Jared Doherty. Winning this tournament is such a great accomplishment for these kids. They worked harder than they ever have before and played as a team from the moment their skates touched the ice until the whistle blew to close the final game.

Both on and off the ice this team showed their parents, other teams and everyone they came into contact with how great they really are.

They deserve this championship and proved that by not hanging their heads after their disappointing loss to open the tournament. They rallied around each other and never let up. Each and everyone of the players on this team is a champion and the whole town should be proud to have them as their representatives. Congratulations to all the Squirt C players and coaches for a job well done.

The Tewksbury girls sixth grade basketball team won both of their games over the weekend in a tournament held in Billerica. They defeated Westford and Wilmington to capture the championship of the annual Shamrock tournament held over St. Patrick's Day weekend. Congratulations goes out to the entire team. Tewksbury Mite A's split games Tewksbury Mite A's sponsored by J.J. Phelan & Sons, had a busy weekend with two games that ended in a loss and a win for the boys in red.

Game I against Newburyport.

First period started with Boomer Glavin, Colin Pierce, Michael Digiorgio, Erik Monti and Derek Petti who came out scrapping for the puck. Drew Mackay started his game off by making a nice save against Newburyport. Michael Dogastino, Robbie Goodell, Adam DeGregorio, Joseph Sodergren and Michael Walls got the puck into the Newburyport zone and kept it working. Patrick Doherty, Cameron Ahearn, Patrick Quinn, Frank Murray and Boomer Glavin passed the puck to each other while trying to keep it away from Newburyport.

Colin Pierce, Derek Petti, Adam DeGregorio, Michael Digiorgio and Erik Monti kept the puck in Newburyport's zone. Robbie Goodell, Joseph Sodergren, Michael Dogastino, Cameron Ahearn and Michael Walls got a shot off the faceoff and sent the puck down to the N zone. Drew Mackay stayed ready at all times and never let his guard down. The team kept the pressure on Newburyport playing keep away with the puck. Adam DeGregorio, Colin Pierce, Michael Walls, Joseph Sodergren and Robbie Goodell took the puck away from Newburyport. Tewksbury continued to make some great shots on net. All lines continued to use the full ice and work with each other. At the end of the first period there was no score.

Second period, staying on top of the game, Colin Pierce, Michael Digiorgio, Erik Monti, Derek Petti and Boomer Glavin kept the game moving. Joseph Sodergren, Robbie Goodell, Michael Walls, Cameron Ahearn and Michael Dogastino got the puck back and forth to each other. Michael Walls grabbed the puck from Newburyport, skated it up and let it rip into the net. Zing, goal one scored by Michael Walls. Patrick Quinn, Frank Murray, Colin Pierce, Patrick Doherty and Adam DeGregorio were all over Newburyport. Patrick Doherty nabbed the puck and skated along side of Patrick Quinn. Doherty passed over to Quinn who with an up and over shot, got it in. Patrick Quinn scored the second goal assisted by Patrick Doherty. Tewksbury took every opportunity they could to take the puck away from Newburyport. Drew Mackay made a great save. The boys in red kept working hard. Every line worked their hardest and together. At the end of the second period the score was Tewksbury 2, Newburyport 0.

Third period saw Adam DeGregorio, Colin Pierce, Erik Monti, Derek Petti and Michael Digiorgio come out strong and fighting for the puck, keeping it in the N zone. Michael Walls, Robbie Goodell, Joseph Sodergren, Cameron Ahearn and Michael Dogastino tried to keep at bay. Despite these efforts and the hard work of goalie Drew Mackay, Newburyport managed to get the puck and score their first goal. Tewksbury kept weaving in and out of their opponents trying to out maneuver them. They did manage to keep the puck away for a while. Joseph Sodergren, Michael Walls, Colin Pierce, Robbie Goodell and Adam DeGregorio kept on the heels of Newburyport. Despite everyone's attempt, their opponents got the puck and scored goal two.

Cameron Ahearn, Michael Dogastino, Frank Murray, Patrick Doherty and Patrick Quinn, weaving in and out kept skating hard and fast. Goal three scored by Newburyport. Patrick Quinn, Joseph Sodergren, Michael Walls, Derek Petti, Colin Pierce and Patrick Doherty were on the ice. Tewksbury pulled their goalie to get the extra man advantage. Tewksbury boys kept skating hard, fast and went back and forth so as not to allow any more goals. The boys were tired but kept up the effort. Unfortunately, not enough time was left to get another goal for themselves and the game ended with Newburyport ahead, 3-2. Very tough loss for the boys, but they played a good game.

Game II against Billerica. First period saw Robbie Goodell, Michael Walls, Joseph Sodergren, Colin Pierce and Adam DeGregorio got the puck right into the Billerica zone right off the faceoff from Goodell. Derek Petti, Michael Dogastino, Cameron Ahearn, Erik Monti and Michael Digiorgio kept Billerica on their toes. Drew Mackay made a nice save. Patrick Doherty, Frank Murray, Patrick Quinn, Boomer Glavin and Colin Pierce kept digging for the puck against the boards. Michael Walls, Adam DeGregorio, Robbie Goodell, Joseph Sodergren and Michael Dogastino made some nice passes and kept taking as many shots on net as they could. Derek Petti, Erik Monti, Cameron Ahearn, Boomer Glavin and Michael Digiorgio brought the puck back up the ice working well together.

Patrick Quinn, Colin Pierce, Frank Murray, Adam DeGregorio and Patrick Doherty kept working the entire ice to their advantage. Robbie Goodell, Michael Walls, Joseph Sodergren, Cameron Ahearn and Michael Dogastino kept Billerica going up and down the ice. Drew Mackay kept getting shots on him and kept them away. Tewksbury worked the entire sheet of ice. At the end of the first period there was no score.

Second period and Michael Digiorgio, Derek Petti, Michael Dogastino, Adam DeGregorio and Erik Monti kept Billerica on their toes. Drew Mackay deflected the puck on to the have Billerica get the rebound on the deflect and got their first goal. Patrick Doherty, Boomer Glavin, Frank Murray, Cameron Ahearn and Patrick Quinn kept the puck back in the Billerica zone. Adam DeGregorio, Colin Pierce, Robbie Goodell, Michael Walls and Joseph Sodergren got the puck right off the faceoff. Drew Mackay made another nice deflect of the puck. Michael Digiorgio, Derek Petti, Erik Monti, Boomer Glavin and Colin Pierce dug for the puck. Michael Digiorgio snatched the puck from Billerica, moved up the ice and slammed it into the corner of the net to score Tewksbury's first goal unassisted.

Patrick Quinn, Frank Murray, Patrick Doherty, Michael Dogastino and Adam

DeGregorio used the boards and kept the momentum going. Billerica managed to break away and got their second goal. Joseph Sodergren, Michael Walls, Boomer Glavin, Cameron Ahearn and Robbie Goodell took every opportunity to get the puck away from their opponents. Robbie Goodell got the puck and shot it off the boards over to Michael Walls who went up the ice and stuffed the puck into the net. Michael Walls scored the second goal assisted by Robbie Goodell. At the end of the second period the score was tied 2-2.

Third period and Adam DeGregorio, Erik Monti, Derek Petti, Colin Pierce and Michael Digiorgio came out with determination to take control from the start. Boomer Glavin, Colin Pierce, Frank Murray, Patrick Quinn and Patrick Doherty kept working the boards and the ice as they went back and forth on the ice. Drew Mackay made a nice save. Michael Walls, Robbie Goodell, Cameron Ahearn, Boomer Glavin and Joseph Sodergren kept the puck moving between each other. Michael Walls grabbed the puck, passed it over to Robbie Goodell who zipped it over to Joseph Sodergren who popped it into the net. Joseph Sodergren scored the third goal assisted by Robbie Goodell and Michael Walls. Teamwork and constant shots on net are what the lines are all about. Erik Monti, Adam DeGregorio, Colin Pierce, Derek Petti and Michael Digiorgio kept the pace going back and forth. Patrick Quinn, Cameron Ahearn, Michael Dogastino, Frank Murray and Michael Walls stayed on top of Billerica at all times.

Michael Walls slid in and took the puck away from Billerica, passing it over to Patrick Quinn who, with a large swing sent the puck soaring up and over the shoulder of the goalie and scored. Patrick Quinn scored Tewksbury's fourth goal assisted by Michael Walls. Lines continued to change and the boys in red continued to take shots on net. Billerica managed to get their third goal. Tewksbury kept the puck in Billerica's zone as the period drew to an end. Tewksbury won the game 4-3.

The Tewksbury sixth grade boys basketball team has enjoyed a terrific season. (courtesy photo).

Three more victories for sixth grade boys

Tewksbury added more impressive accomplishments to their ever growing hoop resume. With recent victories over North Andover and Westford, the Redmen secured the Merrimack Valley regular season crown with a 19-3 record (15 conference victories in a row). A playoff victory against a highly skilled Haverhill team has put Tewksbury in a best of three playoff series against Salem, NH.

With only two wins separating the Redmen from the regular season title, the team put the pedal to the metal and dominated North Andover and Westford from start to finish.

Key baskets from Greg Kelly, Steve Feldhouse, Sean Teel and Ryan Sugrue fueled the victory over North Andover. Strong overall play from Mike Hood, Ethan Marsh and Derek Yarossi paced the team to their title clinching victory over Westford. Exhibiting the improvement the team has made, the Redmen controlled this game for the duration, while in the prior game against then shorthanded Westford was a tight struggle.

The playoff battle against Haverhill won't soon be forgotten. Key baskets from Steve Sherburn, Chase Bartrum and Tyler Flaherty got Tewksbury off to a very strong start. The strong and intelligent play of Eric Medina helped foul out Haverhill's center and kept the Redmen in the ball game. Ronnie Wallace embraced the role as the floor general and dished out numerous assists. Although he didn't score much, this was Wallace's best game of the season as he handled the tough Haverhill press with ease.

The team has had a truly unforgettable season. Regardless of the playoff finals results, the team should be very proud of their efforts this year.

Pee Wee III's continue to battle as a team

The Tewksbury Pee Wee III hockey team fought a tough battle against Reading on Monday March 3rd and came out on top thanks in large part to Katelyn Ladd's natural hat trick! The Redmen out scored Reading 5-3 in a very close contest.

The teams were well matched, making for an exciting fast-paced game. The Redmen offense stormed into the Reading zone with numerous shots on goal, but they couldn't light the lamp. Reading did the same, but Evan Walsh was there with a sensational stick save to shut them down. Jimmy Petitpas, Chris Adams, Jimmy Sullivan, and Katelyn Ladd were strutting their stuff on defense, lifting up sticks and knocking Reading off the puck. It was looking like a stale mate until Reading managed to break through for a goal. The first period ended with Reading up 1-0.

The Redmen regrouped and went on the attack. At 10:41 in the second period, Katelyn Ladd threaded the needle through three Reading players and went head on with the Reading netminder. Ladd fired a shot over the goalie's shoulder to tie the game. Jeff Kelly, Brett Scott, Andrew DeMaio, Matt Pelrine, Chris Fowler, Kevin Tavares, Cameron DeGregorio, and Rollie Jenkins were making seasoned passing plays and maneuvering the play up ice.

A goal seemed imminent; it was Katelyn Ladd skating the puck out of the Redmen zone, over the red line, picking up speed as she crossed into scoring position. Ladd let it rip through a small ray of sunshine between the post and the goalie's shoulder, putting the Redmen up 2-1.

Reading came right back with fierce skating and sharp shots on net. They were flying in on a fast breakaway threatening to tie the game, but Matt Bailey made a fantastic glove save to rob them of the score. Intense play continued through the remainder of the period, and Reading managed to tie the game 2-2 at the close of the second period.

Into the third and into the penalty box! Frustration was setting in and the hard checks were coming out. The Redmen kept cool and kept the pressure on. At 8:10 in the third period, Rollie Jenkins fed a perfect pass to Katelyn Ladd. Ladd blasted a shot to the top right corner over the goalie's glove giving the Redmen the 3-2 lead, and racking up a natural hat trick!

The Redmen were on a roll, with Kevin Tavares scoring just 38 seconds later on a setup from Brett Scott and Jeff Kelly. Reading was ripping and poured on the power in desperate attempts to tie the game. They scored at 5:58 making it 4-3, threatening the Redmen's momentum as they closed the gap to a one goal game.

But the PeeWee III team knows when to reach down deep and pull out their best play against stiff competition. Rollie Jenkins gave the Redmen the two-goal advantage once again with 3:57 left to play by back handing a shot over the goalie's left shoulder.

With two minutes left to play, Reading pulled their goalie for the 6 on 5 advantage. Redmen penalties didn't help and the Reading advantage grew to 6 on 4. It was all about the defense and Matt Bailey's brilliant goaltending. The Redmen held off Reading's advances as the final buzzer sounded. The Redmen rule with the 5-3 victory over a tough Reading opponent.

Squirt "A" hockey team fit to be tied

The Wilmington Squirt A Wildcats sponsored by Focaccia's Restaurant squared off with the Newburyport Squirt A team @ Ristuccia in Wilmington on Friday March 21st in Valley League action.

Wilmington came out flying and demonstrated a clear and distinct advantage early. The Cat's Danny Cushing scored on a breakaway early in the first period. Danny's goal gave Wilmington a 1-0 lead and his goal was assisted by Brian Hurley and Brett Kidik. The Danny Cushing show continued when he fired a missile to the top corner by a screened Newburyport goalie giving the Cat's a 2-0 lead. Danny's second goal was assisted by Bret Kidik and Chris Robertson. Newburyport then got on the board with a breakaway goal and then scored again late off a rebound to tie the game at 2-2 after the first period. Wilmington goalie Tyler Stillings played well again and kept the Cat's in the game!

In the second period the Wilmington defense of Brendan O'Brien, Chris Robertson, Brian Hurley and Kevin Barry did a great job of limiting the skilled Newburyport forwards from penetrating the Wilmington defensive zone. The only goal in the second period was a fluke goal scored by Newburyport giving them the lead 3-2 after two periods.

Early in the third period the Wilmington forwards of Kyle Creedon, Danny Cushing, Sean Keane, Brian Fitzpatrick, Peter Leighton, Jeffree Harris, Brett Kidik and Matt Larfarello kept the pressure on Newburyport and would not be denied. Wilmington tied the game when Matt Larfarello scored a big goal early in the third period tying the game at 3-3. Matt's goal was assisted by Danny Cushing and Brian Hurley. Newburyport then went ahead again 4-3 only to have the Cat's Peter Leighton even the score again at 4-4. Peter's goal was assisted by Brian Fitzpatrick and Kyle Creedon. Newburyport then scored again to take a 5-4 lead before Wilmington's Danny Cushing notched a hat trick giving the Cat's a dramatic come from behind 5-5 tie. Danny's third goal was assisted by Sean Keane and Jeffree Harris.

The Wilmington Squirt "A" Wildcats took on previously unbeaten Winthrop on Saturday March 22nd at Hockeytown in Saugus in Dual State action.

Wilmington started with a bang as Danny Cushing continued his torrid scoring pace by breaking in alone and converting to put Wilmington up 1-0. Danny's goal was assisted by Sean Keane and Bret Kidik. The Wilmington defense of Chris Robertson, Kevin Barry, Brendan O'Brien and Danny Cushing were very strong and limited Winthrop to very few quality scoring opportunities.

In the second period Winthrop did convert on a breakaway to even the score at 1-1. Wilmington goalie Tyler Stillings held the fort and the second period ended 1-1.

Early in the third period Winthrop converted on a "two on one" and went ahead 2-1. However, the Wilmington forwards of Brian Hurley, Patrick Boudreau, Sean Keane, Bret Kidik, Brian Fitzpatrick, Peter Leighton, Jeffree Harris, Kyle Creedon and Matt Larfarello kept the pressure on hoping to notch the equalizer. With a minute to go Wilmington pulled their goalie and Danny Cushing scored for the Cat's with four seconds to play salvaging a tie that felt like a win. The final score was 2-2 and Danny's second goal was assisted by Jeffree Harris and Peter Leighton.

The Cat's squared off with Concord/Carlisle on Sunday March 23rd at Methuen High School in Dual State action.

The first period ended with neither team scoring but their was plenty of action. The Wilmington forward lines of Kyle Creedon, Patrick Boudreau, Sean Keane, Brian Fitzpatrick, Peter Leighton, Jeffree Harris, Bret Kidik, Danny Cushing and Matt Larfarello clearly had the better of scoring chances but could not convert.

Early in the second period Wilmington's Jeffree Harris scored on his own rebound to put the Cat's up 1-0. Jeff's goal was assisted by Matthew Larfarello and Peter Leighton. Concord/Carlisle then scored off a scrum in front of Wilmington goalie Tyler Stillings evening the score at 1-1. Then with only a minute to go in the second period Concord/Carlisle went ahead 2-1.

Early in the third period Concord/Carlisle converted on a "two on one" and took a commanding 3-1 lead but the Cat's wouldn't give up. Wilmington was playing it's third game in as many days and it showed. The Cat's defense of Brian Hurley, Brendan O'Brien, Kevin Barry and Chris Robertson limited the Concord/Carlisle scoring opportunities but Wilmington had nothing left in the tank. Concord Carlisle was awarded a rare penalty shot late in the game and goalie Tyler Stillings stopped the scoring bid but the damage was done. The final score was 3-1 Concord/Carlisle...

The Squirt "A" players and parents would like to thank Focaccia's Restaurant and their dedicated coaches who volunteer their time and experience to help make a difference.

Tewksbury Bantam A's take three more points

Perhaps saving their best for last, the Tewksbury Bantam A team kept up their late season surge by notching a tie and a win this past week.

Wednesday's 4-4 Valley League tie against Reading saw the Redmen rally with just under two minutes remaining in the game to salvage a point. Goal scorers were Justin O'Brien with two, John Cahalane and Jonhenry Holt. Assists were earned by Cahalane (two), Holt and defenseman Louis Iovine, Tim Dooley and Dan Mazzie (up from PeeWee A to help out) were strong on defense as well as Iovine. Goalie C.J. Walsh held the fort in goal turning aside a flurry of would be go-ahead goals by Reading in the closing minutes.

On Thursday the team played one of its best games of the season, turning back Haverhill by a 6-1 score in the Dual State League. John Cahalane and Kevin Aguiar scored a pair apiece. Jonhenry Holt and

Anthony Moccia scored one apiece.

Playmaker Ryan Mooney dished out three assists, including a very unselfish perfect setup to Moccia to end the game. Other helpers went to Aguiar, Robert Cuzzi, Brett Little. Steve Dame played strong at the Tewksbury blue line in front of winning goalies C.J. Walsh and Billy Stuart.

WHS Hall of Fame deadline this weekend

Wilmington High School Hall of Fame Committee has announced that the nomination deadline for this year is Saturday, March 30, 2002. All nominations must be postmarked no later than the deadline in order to be considered.

Established in 1990, Wilmington's Hall of Fame honors the school's athletes, coaches, benefactors, and special contributors.

The selection process is based on the rule that the candidates for induction been evaluated on what they did in sports while at Wilmington High School exclusively. Achievements in sports while at college or at the professional level will have no bearing on these election committee's deliberations.

To be eligible for nomination, the athletes must have participated in at least one varsity sport. Athletes nominated for the Hall of Fame must have graduated at least 10 years prior to nomination.

All nominations should be sent to: Ms. Susan Hardimon secretary, WHS Athletic Hall of Fame, Wilmington High School, 159 Church Street, Wilmington, MA 01887.

Date: Monday, April 7, 2003
Time: 7:00 pm

The subject matter of the proposed amendments are as indicated below. The complete text and maps relative to the proposed amendments are available for inspection during regular business hours at the following places:

Town Clerk's Office, Town Hall, 1009 Main Street, Tewksbury, MA
Planning and Conservation Office, 999 Whipple Road, Tewksbury, MA

Article: Subject Matter of Proposed Amendments Sufficient for Identification.

Article: Amend Section 541.1 of the Town Zoning Bylaw to require the landscape buffer between Commercial and R40 or R80 District of a minimum of 20 feet and to regulate lots across a public way from lots located in the R40 and R80 District.

Article: Amend Section 541.2 of the Town Zoning Bylaw to require the landscape buffer between the Heavy Industrial District and R40 or R80 District of a minimum of 30 feet and up to a maximum of 60 feet and that this provision shall be construed to regulate lots across a public way from lots located in the R40 and R80 District.

Article: Amend Section 2300 of the Town Zoning Bylaw by adding a new Section 2318 which provides that where a way, either public or private, separates a residential district from a Heavy Industrial or Commercial District, the residential district extends across said way for the determination of applicable provisions of the zoning bylaws.

Article: Amend Section 832.3. c. 4) of the Town Zoning Bylaw by removing possible contradiction in separation between bylaw requirement and Department of Environmental Protection's Stormwater Management Policy in effect at the time of the application.

Article: Amend the Tewksbury Zoning Bylaws by adding Section 5500 Earth Moving and Clearing of Property and by adding new items within the Tewksbury Zoning Bylaws, Definitions and deleting Section 5370-5376.

Article: Amend Appendix D of the Town Zoning Bylaw by changing from HI to R40 and from R40 to HI certain property identified as former Met Life property. This rezoning will return the described property to its zoning district designation prior to Article 47 from the 1995 Annual Town Meeting.

Article: Amend Appendix D of the Town Zoning Bylaw by changing from HI to R40 property identified as East Street near Shawsheen. This rezoning will return described property to its zoning district designation prior to Article 47 from the 1995 Annual Town Meeting.

Article: Amend Appendix D of the Town Zoning Bylaw by changing from HI to R40 property identified as Battle's Estate. This rezoning will return the described property to its zoning district designation prior to Article 47 from the 1995 Annual Town Meeting.

Article: Amend Appendix D of the Town Zoning Bylaw by changing from HI to Farming identified as Cooney's Land on Livingston St. This rezoning will return described property to its zoning district designation prior to Article 47 from the 1995 Annual Town Meeting.

Article: Rezone properties as Assessors Map 63/Lot 51, Map 63/Lot 52, Map 77/Lot 20 from Heavy Industrial to Farming.

Article: Rezone southwest portion of property located at Assessors Map 73, Lot 3; Northeast portion of Map 73, Lot 4 a certain portion of Villa Roma Drive from Residential (R-40) to Commercial (COMM).

Article: Amend the Zoning Bylaw by adding a new section 8400 Interstate Overlay District. New overlay to include uses not currently allowed in underlying districts near intersection of I-93 and East Street and I-495 and Route 38.

Reverend David P. Mahn

Support group for families of those who've been...

Called up...

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

No matter what your opinion of the present invasion of Iraq, one thing that has to be remembered is there are people in this country who are your neighbors and they are suffering because of the war.

They are the families and loved ones of those National Guard, and Army Reservists that have been called up to serve in Iraq and Afghanistan.

Reverend David P. Mahn, who does not hide his ministry behind the four walls of Lynnfield's Messiah Lutheran Church, has remembered the needs of these people and taken his ministry to them. The memories come from his previous service as a National Guard Chaplain called to active duty as a part of Desert Shield and Desert Storm.

At that time he held over 40 support sessions for members of the National Guard families who were left behind.

"Currently there is no formal base at Fort Devens," Rev. Mahn said. "The families of regular army personnel do not have support groups. I opened the doors of the Messiah Lutheran Church to start a support group."

The importance of having this location is shown by one of the original eight families that came to the first meeting earlier this month. The family comes from Peabody and would have to travel to Camp Edwards (Otis Air National Guard Base) on Cape Cod for the nearest support services.

"That would be too far to travel," Mahn said. It is more convenient for people to come parts of the mission is the confidentiality and the fact that anything said inside the session stays in the church.

"People talk about feeling alone and this provides them a way of having local people they can talk with. They can also share telephone numbers," Mahn said. This gives people who have loved ones in the military right now a safe environment to talk about what is causing stress in their lives.

Everything that is said in the confines of the meeting remains confidential. That is one of the ground rules.

The number of people who wish to return for a follow-up session on April 15 shows the success of the first session. Many of these people said they would bring friends with them.

Part of the problem is the federal laws that are set up to protect the families.

"Information can't be shared under the Privacy Act," Mahn said, "so people who are alone don't know that someone in the same status may be as close as the next street over."

In a generality Mahn can say, "The concern that I am seeing now is that military families are feeling less support now than they did during Desert Storm."

According to Mahn part of the problem is the fewer number of personnel in the armed services than during any other wars in recent history.

Mahn explained, "If you were a guy growing up in World War II and you had six buddies one would be in the military. Now you would have to know about 185 people to know one in the military. It makes the isola

ANTHONY MANCONI

"Make the world go away, and get it off of my shoulders." Folks, that is the name of a song that was popular a few years ago.

It unfortunately is the theme song and attitude of many people today. Well, the world won't go away and you can't hide from it either. We meet it face to face as we walk or drive out of our front gates every day.

When I walk into the newspaper office, the bank or city hall, I say, "Good morning," to everyone I meet. Almost everyone I meet returns the salutation with a cheery, "Good Morning." A very few try to spoil it all with a "What's good about it? My reply always is, "Just seeing you makes it a good morning for me."

I remember coming home from work and presenting Kathy with a beautiful bouquet of roses. "Well it's about time that you appreciate me!" she shouted. Then she hugged and kissed me until I couldn't stand it any longer. "Don't get excited," I said, "Some idiot forgot the darn flowers on the bus."

Many of you know, (I am sure) what a frozen fish handshake feels like. It's a hand that is extended reluctantly by some person as a sign of peace. Kathy came home from church Sunday morning and shouted, "I wish they would cut out that hand shaking at Mass!"

"Why?" I asked, "Don't you want to be friendly?" "Well, look here 'Bozo breath,' she snapped, "This kid in the pew in front of me was wiping his running nose with his right hand all during Mass. He then turned and said as he shook my hand, 'Peace be with you Lady. I'll bet he gave me his darn head cold as a gift.'"

Doing business without advertising is like winking at a girl in the dark - you know what you are doing, but no one else does...

My father always told me, "Chipper, love and respect your neighbors, but keep those fences up..."

Would you like to go with the Woodchipper on a "Whale Watch?" No, we won't sail out of Newburyport or Gloucester. We will meet in front of Mickey Reardon's and WATCH, Johnny

Movie Reviews

by Paul Feely

"View From the Top" a waste of time

MOVIE: "VIEW FROM THE TOP"
GRADE: *

Review: This movie is one of the bigger wastes of talent to hit the big screen in recent memory.

Gwyneth Paltrow plays a woman who strives to be the best airline steward she can be, and is helped along the way by friend Christina Applegate, and funnyman Mike Myers is the instructor who teaches her the ropes.

The plotline is supposed to be a bit tongue-in-cheek, but the ideas are wasted. It's hard to make Myers unfunny, but this film successfully does just that.

SHORTTAKES

MOVIE: "THE HUNT-ED"
GRADE: **

Review: This movie claims to be an original, but it plays like a remake of Sylvester Stallone's 'First Blood'.

This storyline involves Benicio del Toro playing a former CIA Special Operative who loses his mind a bit, and decides to go on a terror-filled killing spree in the Pacific Northwest. Once authorities figure out what is going on, they call in the man's former trainer, played by Tommy Lee Jones.

The action scenes are shot fairly well, and del Toro is convincing and scary as the survivalist-gone-mad, but Jones has played this type of role so many times in recent years that he could sleepwalk through the script - and at times it looks like he is.

MOVIE: "TEARS OF THE SUN"
GRADE: ***

Review: Bruce Willis assumes his place on the throne in the hierarchy of action heroes with a heart in this war thriller.

Willis plays Lieutenant Waters, a U.S. Navy SEAL who leads his team into a battle zone in Nigeria. His team's mission is to enter the country, then find and rescue an American doctor, a priest, and two nuns working at a settlement before the militant rebels find them and slaughter the innocent.

The only way he convinces the doctor, played by Monica Bellucci, to come along with him is to tell her that the people in her care can escape with her. Of course, when they arrive at the extraction site, there is only one chopper waiting, and the good doctor slaps the Lieutenant as they fly off.

The story revolves around the change of heart experienced by Willis' character, who of course plays the hero that decides to disobey orders and head back for a firefight and rescue operation.

Both Willis and Bellucci are very good, but be warned - the film is very graphic, and very violent during the gun battle scenes.

MOVIE: "OLD SCHOOL"
GRADE: ***

Review: Anyone who is reluctant to leave their party days behind them as they head into their 30s will love this movie, which plays like an updated version of 'Animal House'.

Will Ferrell, Luke Wilson, and Vince Vaughn play three guys who decide to create their own fraternity house in an effort to keep the good times rolling, and end up looking like fools as they try to party with the younger crowd. This is the type of comedy that usually heads into theaters in the summer months, and its appearance on the scene now helps to warm the soul a bit during this harsh winter.

Most of the humor is of the gross-out, stupid trick kind, but the actors also manage to have a few genuinely moving moments along the way.

MOVIE: "DARKNESS"

FALLS"
GRADE: **

Review: At first glance, this horror movie appears to be one of those paint-by-numbers scarefests that Hollywood churns out about six times a year these days, to lure teenage daters into the theater for a night, but this one is not without a few redeeming moments.

The story centers around a retelling of the famous tooth fairy story, but with a twist - this time the tooth fairy is a bit angry at the residents of a town called Darkness Falls, and is taking teeth whether they are ready to fall out or not, and whether the people they are coming from are alive or dead.

Just when you think you have this one figured out there is a genuinely scary scene to make you sit up and take notice, but as a viewer you are much better off waiting to rent this one, rather than spend money on the top prices at the box office.

MOVIE: "DAREDEVIL"
GRADE: ***

Review: This Ben Affleck-driven movie isn't as good comic book-come-to-life movie as last year's 'Spiderman', but it definitely has its moments of greatness.

Affleck stars as a lawyer who was blinded as a child, thereby developing super-your leg, don't come running to me..."

Angelo Quaganti got a job painting the white line down the middle of a highway. The first day he painted a line a mile long. The second day only a 1/2 mile long and the third day only twenty feet long. The foreman called him into the office and asked, "Why are you slowing down?" "Gee, Angelo explained, "the paint bucket keeps getting further and further away..."

Folks, because my late mother came from Ireland and my late father was Italian my Aunt Nora, calls me a "Half-Wit..."

George Gould found out that after taking a certain elixir his hearing showed a remarkable improvement. George wrote a letter to the pharmaceutical company saying, "Sirs, after taking your product for two weeks, I heard from my brother in California..."

I know that Napoleon was not a politician because every picture or statue of him, shows him with his hand in his own pocket...

Pat O'Brien (the late movie actor) said, "Gum was given away free on chew, chew trains..."

OCEANS OF FUN. LAND AHOY!

Tickets for the 61st Anniversary Benefit Concert to be held in the Stoneham Town hall at 125 Central St. are on sale at the Stoneham Theatre box office or call (781) 279-2200.

John Cook, one of the country's best young organists, will be playing a pops concert featuring music from the 20th century. Cook has been playing professionally since his mid-teens and has won two awards for Young Organist of the Year from the American Theatre Organ Society. The concert will begin at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $15. All proceeds of this event will go support the Stoneham Theatre.

The Stoneham Town Hall organ, which has a long and interesting history, has undergone significant improvements recently. The April 5th concert is being presented in celebration of those recent repairs. Since 1942 the organ has been played prior to the opening of Stoneham town meetings.

Only registered voters are allowed into town meetings, and so music lovers and organ enthusiasts from surrounding communities have not had the opportunity to hear this amazing instrument - not until now that is.

For additional information, you may call the Stoneham Theatre at (781) 279-2200.

Dinner and auction at Northeast Metro Tech

Saturday, April 5, the Northeast Metro Tech Parent Advisory Council will conduct their eighth annual scholarship fundraiser, 100 Hemlock Road, Wakefield, beginning at 5 p.m. A buffet dinner catered by Gaetano's of Stoneham starts at 6:30 p.m. Many silent auction items will be on view for bidding. Auctioneer Joanne Bonura will conduct an exciting live auction which includes items for the entire family. Free snacks, ice cream and drinks will be available throughout the auction.

Some selected offerings are: hotel accommodations in Aruba, a Florida package to include the Wyndham Palace and Hilton Garden Inn, Newport Rhode Island mansions and International tennis championship, autographed framed picture and baton from Keith Lockhart, Boston Patriots autographed football from Richard Seymour, an autographed hockey puck from former Bruins star, Ray Bourque, and Red Sox memorabilia, hotel packages and restaurant items from the Boston area and surrounding communities.

Other offerings include: Cingular Wireless free airtime, AT&T Broadband digital gold services, passes to the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, NY, passes to the Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, fitness packages, Eastern Mountain Sports and REI camping rentals, a Grill-2-Go by the Thermos Company, an electric train set from NAPA New England, a full house-cleaning by the Maids of Newton, lunch for two on The Spirit of Boston, tickets to the Red Sox and Boston Celtics games, ski passes, North Shore Music Theatre, Boston Ballet, a golf package, Winnie the Pooh, Stuart Little, and Sesame Street offerings along with many other unique items for children will be available: museum and movie passes, duck tours, whale watches, gondola rides and river cruises.

As a result of the parent Advisory Council's fundraising efforts, several students will receive financial awards upon graduation. After school enrichment opportunities along with our all school art/photo exhibit will be available throughout the 2003-2004 school year. Bring a friend! Please call: (781) 246-0810, x1655 to reserve your tickets now!

North Reading: What's in a name?

"He's been around the world, touring the depths of the ocean as the president of an environmental organization dedicated to conserving oceans and marine life," notes the "North Reading Transcript."

"When he's not teaching college students or working on his new television show, he's finding time to write books and win prestigious awards, including two Emmys."

"So who is this impressive man of many hats? He's not a Hollywood celebrity but North Reading's own Jonathan Bird."

"Bird, a well-known and respected underwater photographer and cinematographer, became interested in his unusual field almost by simple chance."

"While he was always interested in photography, he only learned how to scuba dive when he was short the necessary physical education credits needed to graduate from Worcester Polytechnic Institute. So, he enrolled in the certification class, to fulfill the requirement."

"After the class, he was hooked on ocean life."

"I lost a lot of interest in surface photography and became really interested in underwater photography," he said.

"You've seen pictures of everything above water. Underwater, there were so many things to photograph that were new and different and challenging."

"After graduating with a degree in electrical engineering, he accepted a position at Raytheon as a design engineer, where he worked on radar systems."

"Although he enjoyed the time he spent working for Raytheon, Bird says that he was constantly wondering, 'Is it possible to make a living doing what I really, really like to do?' ... While he worked at Raytheon and as he completed his courses in graduate school, Bird worked part-time presenting slide shows to elementary school children that educated them on ocean conservation and marine life in the North Atlantic...."

Burlington: Looking ahead

"Lori Hodgson, the town's new library director, says early goals with her job include letting people know the library exists, what it has to offer, and improving overall communication with the public," notes the Burlington Chronicle.

"So far, she adds, she is impressed with the people she is working with, saying she has plenty of avenues to which she can turn if a problem or concern arises."

"I am impressed with the support I have received from the staff and from the public," Hodgson said recently, in a telephone interview.

"I am adjusting very well, especially with the help of a knowledgeable staff and a very good trustees board," Hodgson stated.

"If I have a question, such as 'What do I do about this?' Or 'What do I do here?', I know there are people I can contact. They have been very helpful, and I am doing very well," she said.

"Hodgson initially served as assistant director in Burlington, beginning this past February. She was named acting director in August, before being appointed as director in November."

"Before that, Hodgson was at the Wilmington Public Library for over nine years, where she was the head of reference and adult services."

"In this position, Hodgson said she did a lot of assistant director's work which helped in preparation for her Burlington job."

"Some pieces of the job (in Wilmington) were similar to what I do here," Hodgson stated. "Those include coordinating with the friends (of the library; such a group also exists in Burlington), working with the staff, and covering desks."

"There was some corporate stuff," Hodgson continued. "But it was not the higher-level stuff which I do now...."

Burlington to Winchester: Thinking past 2005

"The Northeast Solid Waste Committee (NESWC) Board of Directors announced that the NESWC Strategic Planning Committee has reached agreement with the Wheelabrator North Andover (WNA) negotiating team regarding a series of proposals addressing refuse disposal services for the member communities post September 2005."

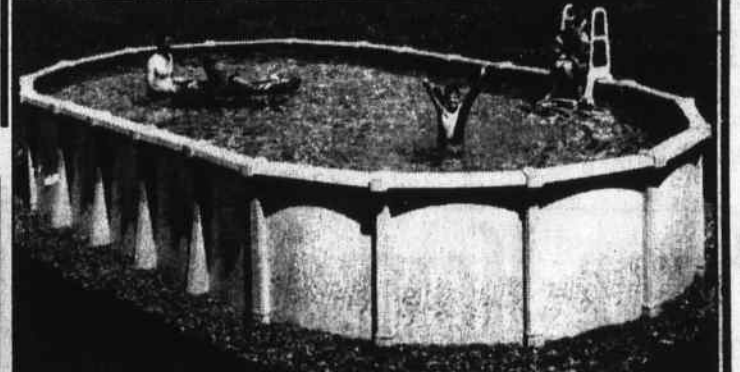

"The 23 member communities currently deliver the portion of the municipal solid waste stream remaining after source reduction, recycling and composting to a waste-to-energy facility located in North Andover owned and operated by WNA. Under the terms of the existing Service Agreement, which runs through September 27, 2005, the NESWC communities are paying $145 per ton this year, which is among the highest disposal fee in the country. Under the terms of the proposed agreements, the disposal fee to be paid by the communities beginning in September 2005 will be less than half the amount they currently pay."

"The Strategic Planning Committee is pleased to present these proposals to the NESWC Board of Directors and to the 23 member communities. There is light at the end of the NESWC tunnel," said Robert Moroney, Chairman of the Board of Directors. "These proposals represent a competitive option for the NESWC communities worthy of serious consideration by our members."

Support

tion, much more pronounced than what it used to be."

When asked about recent reports that some groups are attempting to bring back the Blue Star banner, used during World War II to identify families with members in the military, Mahn thought it might be a good idea. However he was keeping a final decision in reserve.

"Blue Star banners may help the situation," Mahn said. A lot will have to do with the mood of the country within a couple of months. It may cause more stress on the families."

Mahn is well qualified to serve as a facilitator for the support groups. Aside from his previous experience he holds a Masters of Divinity and has served as Lutheran minister for 36 years including 25 years as a chaplain to the Massachusetts Army National Guard. He is also the chairperson of the Massachusetts Employee Support Group of the Guard and Reserve.

This position gives him a protocol rank equal to that of a Major General and therefore access to information and services that might not normally be available.

"I have a little more knowledge than the average minister, about what is going on and where we are right now," Mahn said.

Mahn also has special training in pastoral counseling and serves as a director of the State Police Chaplain's Corps and the chief chaplain for the Massachusetts Corp of Police Chaplains.

If need be, Rev. Mahn calls on the members of his church to be a part of his ministry. This is the case with the present outreach program the church is now offering.

"When I brought the idea up to the congregation they were not only 100 percent behind it but I have more volunteers than I can use for the next three months," Mahn said.

The volunteers provide refreshments for the families and staff a playroom for the children that are brought to the meetings.

This is not the first time that Mahn has called upon the support of the congregation he has served full-time over the past four years. On December 26, 2000 he was called to St. Joseph's Church in Wakefield, where he assisted that church's pastor, Reverend Michael Steele and other ministers from the area in counseling the survivors of the Edgewater Industry shooting which took place across the street from the church.

Mahn also helped in providing follow-up counseling to several police officers involved in the arrest of the perpetrator.

Following the 9/11 attack Mahn was immediately called to Logan International Airport where he helped to counsel the surviving family members of those people that died in the crash of two airliners that took off from Logan before being hijacked and forced to act as bombs at the World Trade Center in New York.

However, that was not his only involvement in the follow-up of the terrorist attack. He later went to New York and served for a one-week span as the chaplain to the police, Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Federal Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms personnel that were on scene during the clean-up.

As part of this duty Mahn came upon a scene at the site of the former Building Six (U.S. Customs Building) in the World Trade Center. What he saw not only amazed him but also struck a note of awe in the minds of the hardened professional members of the elite New York Police Force Swat Team working there to recover the remains of their brother officers.

A beam had crashed down from the North Tower and became embedded in the rubble of the Customs Building. The force of the crash collapsed the roof of the building and compressed everything down to the six floors below ground level.

In a written description of the site, Mahn states: "In the midst of the destruction where no person could walk or reach, there stood a steel beam in the perfect dimensions of a cross. The beam was from the North Tower. Fused to the cross beam was a twisted piece of metal that looks like the shroud that Christians place on the cross from Good Friday to Easter Sunday.

Here the police and fire personnel came to pray. They poured out their hearts to me, they cried and I cried. We prayed for strength..."

Mahn notes that a Christian steelworker spray painted the words "God's House" on the entrance to the building. The cross has since been removed from the rubble and is placed in a site of honor at Ground Zero.

As for the family members of military personnel, Mahn offers these words of advice to people wishing to help them.

He advises, "Listen, without interjecting your own thoughts. Everyone has his or her own feelings about war."

"These families are dealing with a lot of issues they need to talk about in a safe, non-judgmental environment."

He adds, "Think before you speak."

According to Mahn false information, no matter how innocently passed along, can cause a tremendous amount of unneeded stress on the families of military members.

He also notes that anyone offering to help a person keep that promise. The family members are facing isolation and do not need to face a broken promise to care for the kids or to do some shopping if needed.

The support group is open to all people who have loved one in the military and the next meeting will be on April 15 with another meeting scheduled for May. For more information call (781) 334-4111 or look up the church's website at www.mlcspir.org.

Coast Guard offers basic boating course

BEVERLY — We're volunteers who assist the U.S. Coast Guard by conducting safe boating courses. Could you help us save lives at sea by mentioning our upcoming class? Here are the particulars:

Where am I? And how do I get to my destination? Besides being philosophical questions, they're also the two main concerns of navigators.

On Monday, March 31, at 7:30 p.m. the Coast Guard Auxiliary will start a Basic Coastal Navigation course at American Legion Hall, 3 Judson St., Beverly (parking lot access is on Pond St.)

Using a magnetic compass, determining your position on nautical charts, and planning for the effects of ocean currents will be covered in this seven lesson course held on successive Monday nights.

MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA QUESTION: What was the name of Boston's USFL franchise? And, for bonus points, who was the starting quarterback for the team? Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

JODI CIRONE, a Woburn resident and mother of two toddlers, training to compete in the Hyannis Triathlon which will take place on June 14, 2003 in Hyannis, MA. Not only will Jodi complete 1/4 mile swim, a 10-mile bike ride and a 3.5-mile run, but she will be doing it all in order to raise money for the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society. The money goes toward leukemia, lymphoma, Hodgkin's Disease and myeloma research as well as patient services. Anyone interested in sponsoring Jodi's efforts should send a check made out to the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society to LedgePlus, Inc., 33 Poole Street, Woburn, MA 01801.

TEWKSBURY'S KEVIN DOHERTY is expected to be in the starting rotation for the Wheaton College baseball team this spring as a sophomore. Doherty is recovering from elbow surgery that kept him off the mound last year.

THE BURLINGTON ICE PALACE, conveniently located at 36 Ray Avenue in Burlington, is currently offering daily Public Skating time six days a week. From Monday through Friday, public skating is held from 10:30 am to 12 pm, followed by Stick Practice from 12:15 pm to 1:15 pm. Weekend sessions are offered from 3:30-4:30 pm on Saturday and on Sunday, from 3:20-4:20 pm throughout the month of December. Call 781-272-9517 for more details.

Need some help on this week's trivia question? The name is currently used by a team in town.

READING'S MARK DEMASSE, a freshman lefty pitcher, is competing for a starting job on the Wheaton College baseball team this spring. If not used as a starter, expect to see DeMasse enter games in the late innings as a reliever.

READING'S JESSE WOODS, a junior member of the Wheaton College baseball team, may see time at first base this year. Last season Woods batted .192 with five hits in 25 at bats, and knocked in three runs.

READING'S ALI OTWAY is a freshman catcher on the Plymouth State College softball team this spring.

Reading's Meaghan Shaw had a strong season for the Northeastern University track team. Shaw set the NU record of 18:23.36 in the 5000m while taking third at the Greater Boston Championship, though the record was later broken down by Cullen. At the America East Championship, Shaw anchored the fourth place distance medley relay and took 10th in the 3000 in a time of 10:38.43. Shaw attended Reading Memorial High School.

THE COLONIAL ADULT MASTERS SYNCHRONIZED SKATING TEAM is recruiting for new members for the 2003 season. The team, comprised of skaters from four New England states, has in its two competitive seasons qualified for and been finalists at the National Synchronized Skating Championships. Skaters must be age 25 or older, with good command of edges, turns, and stops and be current USFSA or ISI members at the time of try-out. For more information call 978-263-3450.

BURLINGTON'S CHRIS PUGLIESE is back for his sophomore season as a member of the Colby Sawyer College men's tennis team. Last year, Pugliese was named the Commonwealth Coast Conference Rookie of the Year after setting records for singles (19-2), doubles (18-3), and total wins (37-5) in dual matches in a season.

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: The name of the team was the Boston Breakers (currently a women's soccer team), and the starting quarterback was Johnnie Walton.

DO YOU KNOW SOMEONE WE DON'T? If you have information about a local athlete that you would like to see appear in this column, please mail it to: Paul Feely, Middlesex East Sports, P.O. Box 240, Reading, MA 01067, or call Paul at 781-944-2200 between 7 am and 3:30 pm, Monday through Friday, or fax information at 781-942-0884.

A pasta supper with meatballs, salad, bread, beverage, and dessert will be held on Saturday, April 5. Meatballs and Music is from 6 to 8 p.m. at the First Congregational Church of Reading, United Church of Christ, 25 Woburn St.

Dinner is at 6 p.m. with musical entertainment to follow. Children, youth, and adult groups will present a casual evening with singing, handbells, guitars, flutes, and instruments for Dixieland jazz.

Tickets are $10 for adults, $5 for children, under 5 free. The family maximum is $25. Reservations are not needed.

LA LECHE LEAGUE MEETS APRIL 11

The gradual transition from breastfeeding to the family dinner table can be accomplished smoothly while instilling healthy attitudes about food. Practical information about weaning and family nutrition will be shared as La Leche League of Wilmington meets to discuss "Nutrition and Weaning" on Friday, April 11 at 10 a.m. at the Winchester Hospital Family Medical Center, 500 Salem St (Rte 62), Wilmington.

Meetings are held on the 2nd Friday of each month. Women from surrounding towns are welcome.

This meeting is the fourth in the current series of four monthly meetings open to nursing mothers and their babies, as well as pregnant and other interested women. The discussion is informal, with opportunity to ask questions and share experiences.

The group maintains a lending library of books on breastfeeding, childbirth and child care. La Leche League leaders may be called at any time for immediate help, encouragement, and practical suggestions regarding breastfeeding, or to obtain the manual, The Womanly Art of Breastfeeding.

For directions, further information or support call Karen at 978-657-8301 or Terry 978-694-1073.

Time management ideas

According to Hyrum Smith, vice chairman of FranklinCovey, author of the book "The Power of Living Your Value" and creator of The Franklin Planner, the springtime can be a time of guilt.

He says many people think about the resolutions they made for the year that passed and regret not accomplishing their goals. Smith says the key to avoiding that guilt and managing time better is deciding what is important to you. "Setting goals is important and necessary but it is not the place to begin" he says.

Smith offers these time management tips:

- Focus on the future -- don't dwell on what you didn't accomplish. Instead, concentrate on what is important in the present and set goals for tomorrow.

- Write a mission statement and connect with it regularly - a mission statement can help you keep long term goals in mind. The statement should reflect your personality and feelings and help keep you from sacrificing what you want most for what you want now.

- Use a time management tool

- Document your short term and long term goals - keeping plans in a time management tool, planner, palm computer organizer or on a PC can help you stay focused on what you really want. If you choose to record your plans, it is a good idea to keep all of your notes in one location.

- Plan to plan - twenty minutes of weekly planning before your work week starts plus only 10 minutes of planning per day can help you prioritize events. At the week's end, review your plans and the time you spent on them. Use what you learn to accomplish more goals in the future.

- Find balance - work hard at work, but know when to go home. Also, when you are home, learn to relax.

- Renew yourself - take time to renew yourself physically, exercise, mentally be involved in continuous learning, emotionally, take the time to mend a broken relationship or create a new one and spiritually, giving back to the community.

March is awareness month Colon cancer testing saves lives

Colorectal cancer (commonly referred to as colon cancer) can be prevented, but it remains the second leading cause of cancer deaths in the United States. In 2003, 147,500 people will be diagnosed with colon cancer, and 57,100 will die. March is Colon Cancer Awareness Month, and the American Cancer Society wants the public to know that colon cancer doesn't have to be so deadly. While many Americans resist the idea of getting screened for the disease, reliable testing options currently exist to find and remove precancerous colon polyps before they develop into a serious health problem - if only people would get tested.

"Colon cancer testing can actually prevent the disease from occurring," said Mary A. Simmonds, MD, FA, CP, national volunteer president of the American Cancer Society. "We could see a huge improvement in colon cancer prevention and survival if all people 50 and older, plus those at increased risk, would talk with their doctors and get tested."

Preventing colon cancer altogether through testing is the ideal outcome, but early detection of the disease also yields important health benefits. Nationally, people whose colon cancers are found at an early stage through testing have five-year survival rates of 90 percent. However, only 37 percent of colon cancers are detected in the earliest stages. Of those whose cancers are found at a late stage, the five-year survival rate is less than 10 percent.

"With colon cancer testing, we can see parallels with where pap testing was 50 years ago," said Durado D. Brooks, MD, MPH, director of colon cancer programs at the American Cancer Society's National Home Office. "Once Pap testing became widely dis-

DADS RULE, SAFETY REIGNS, POLICY STAYS

'Working very well' for Stoneham

"Stoneham's entrance age for Kindergarten and first grade will remain as is, according to the School Committee," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"Stoneham resident Paul Censullo had approached the board requesting a change in the existing entrance policy to allow for flexibility and parental input.

"Currently, Stoneham's policy mirrors 245 other Massachusetts school districts in requiring that in order to enter Kindergarten, a child must turn five by August 31. Incoming first graders must be six by that date. Over the dozen or so years this policy has been in place, an occasional parent has challenged it by requesting an early entrance to Kindergarten or first grade for his or her child. Routinely, these requests have been turned down.

"Specifically, Censullo proposed an exception period between September 1 and October 15 whereby a child whose birthday falls within this 45 day period be considered for admittance with input from parents or guardians.

"This policy would recognize that children learn at different rates academically cussed and implemented, the results in preventing cervical cancers were evident. We can expect the same success with colon cancer if doctors openly discuss the subject with their patients and urge them to get tested."

and emotionally,' Censullo told the committee last month. Discussion ensued along with review of documents provided by Censullo to support his position.

"But Superintendent Dr. Joseph Connelly reiterated that he would not be in favor of changing the policy.

"Basically, at this point, the principals, Mr. Casey (Assistant Superintendent Dr. Joseph Casey), and I feel that the current policy is working very well and we hesitate to recommend changing it...."

"A great group of guys"

Wilmington's North Intermediate School's Dads' Group was recently formed as a result of Principal Michele Nortonen's invitation to dads to become more involved in the school lives of their children.

"Approximately a dozen guys showed up for the first meeting in November, and from there it just grew," says Nortonen.

Their first function, a sledding party, was planned for the Wednesday of school vacation week at the Woburn Street School, "where the hills are the best!" Also, on the menu were hamburgers and hot dogs, on the grill.

In the spring, the dads plan to construct picnic tables so teachers at the North can take their classes outside for poetry readings, literature circles, etc.

Committee members include Brendan Doherty, Eric Johnson, Mike Russo, Stan Dancewicz, Bill Mara, Mike Paquette, and Nortonen.

"They are a great group of guys," says Nortonen, "who believe that their children will be the biggest beneficiaries of their parental involvement."

"Lab safety is a joint effort of teachers and students at Woburn High School," says Science Department Chairman Scott Blake told the School Committee at its recent meeting," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The staff has been attending annual seminars sponsored by Flinn Scientific, a science supply company, to review safety topics, Blake said, and, at their regular monthly department meetings talk about different safety issues, such as proper chemical labeling and spill control, whether there is adequate supervision and equipment, how to reinforce the safety message with students, etc.

"On the other side, Blake said, the school has students read and sign a safety contract, which must also be signed by their parents.

"The contract covers general guidelines such as following all-written and verbal instructions carefully, not working alone, performing only those experiments authorized by the teacher, knowing what to do if there is a fire drill, etc.

"It also covers more specific issues such as proper clothing and protective eyewear (for example, no dangling jewelry or baggy clothing could be a hazard); what to do in case of accident or injury; proper chemical handling; proper handling for glassware and equipment and heating techniques to reduce injury potential...."

Step back in time to 1712

Step back in time and enjoy the warmth and character of this historic Early American center chimney Colonial/Salt Box. The Samuel Butters House, c.1712 located on the north side of Chestnut Street diagonally across from the Little Red School House between Butters Row and the William Butters II House, demonstrates the union between historical integrity and modern day living.

Situated on a 25,919 square foot lot, this three (3) bedroom, one and a half (1.5) bath home lends itself to great entertaining! It has a wonderful three (3) sided fully screened 15'x18' porch on the side of the house which gives entry to an updated 27'x8' kitchen. You'll find good counter space, generous storage in the warm toned wood cabinets including a built-in wine rack and the modern day convenience of gas stove, dishwasher and garbage disposal.

The wood paneled dining room shows nicely and has plenty of light coming through four (4) six over six windows, two of which have a window seat. A sunny and spacious living room lends itself nicely to oversized furniture and the newer adjoining family room addition has a Rumford fireplace as focal point.

Walk up the short set of stairs to the second floor and pass the eye catching musket cabinet on the left! This makes a perfect enclosed space for today's precious collectibles. The original hand hewn post and beam construction with pegs are seen throughout the second floor hallway and bedrooms. The floor in the master bedroom has been totally replaced with new floor beams and a mountain lodge cherry floor.

The home has a new roof, new furnace installed in 1994, a new hot water heater, and additional footings have been placed in the basement for additional reinforcement. There are new replacement windows with wide sills on the second floor.

Relax on the rear deck and enjoy the pristine setting overlooking a panoramic landscape that includes a variety of trees, shrubs, colorful rose bushes, perennial flowers, an herb garden, and fieldstone wall.

For more information or to view this property call Coldwell Banker Residential Brokerage in Stoneham at (781) 438-7600.

Lauria and Allen at conference

Rosie Lauria and Janet Allen from Carlson GMAC Real Estate's Reading Office attended the 2003 GMAC Business conference in Las Vegas in February.

Janet Allen

"In today's market, home buyers and sellers deserve the assistance of real estate professionals who thoroughly know and understand the business," said Janet Allen, manager.

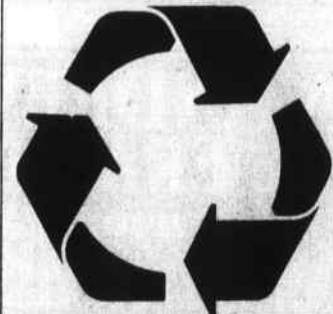

Rosie Lauria

"Attending this business conference provides an opportunity for our GMAC Real sales associates to participate in educational sessions and network with other professionals to share ideas. The focus is always on improving service to our customers and clients. The conference is a great place to get refreshed and motivated."

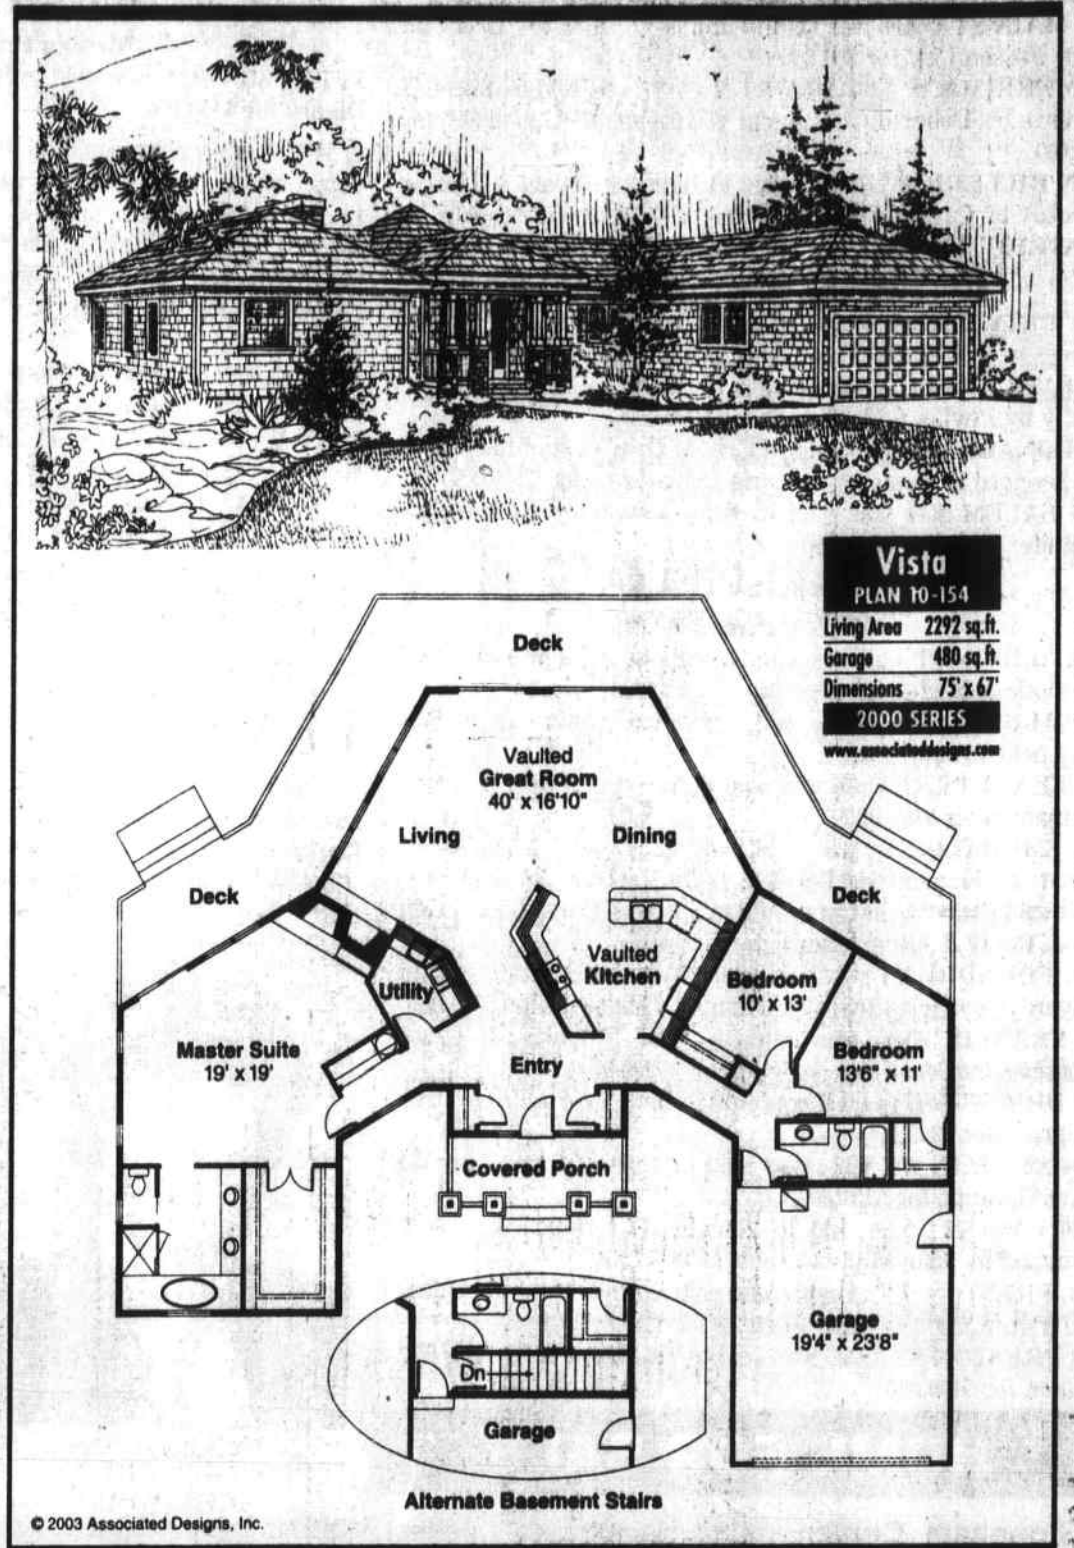

Carlson GMAC Real Estate now serves much of Massachusetts and New Hampshire with more than 60 locally managed and operated real estate offices.

Carlson GMAC's Reading office is located at 55 Haven St. (across from the Atlantic Market). Please stop by anytime for all of your real estate needs.

House with maximum view

Vista

PLAN 10-154
Living Area 2292 sq. ft.
Garage 480 sq. ft.
Dimensions 75' x 67'
2000 SERIES
www.associateddesigns.com

With some homes, the name is tacked on as an after thought. Not so, the Vista. This home was designed for maximum appreciation of a view - hilltop, river bank, lakeside, ocean, or what have you.

Every major room is rimmed with windows facing the rear. And to enhance the viewing possibilities, a wide railed deck spans the entire back of the dwelling, adding extensive outdoor living space.

A vaulted, hexagonal great room, windowed on three sides, is at the core. Two sets of sliding glass doors in the center section provide deck access and allow cooling breezes for air circulation in summer.

When the weather turns gray and cloudy, you can kindle a fire in the fireplace and watch the flames.

The kitchen is large, with plenty of counter and cupboard space. Two or more cooks can work together in this kitchen, without getting in each other's way. Standing at the kitchen sink, or in front of the stove, you can gaze across the great room for full enjoyment of the panoramic view. Washer and dryer are close at hand, in an angled utility room equipped with a sink.

The master suite is well-isolated from the secondary bedrooms and boasts its own fireplace and sitting area. Other luxuries include a huge walk-in closet and a private bathroom with twin lavs, spa tub, oversized shower and separately enclosed water closet. Glass blocks over the tub provide natural illumination.

The Vista's other two bedrooms share a bathroom. One of the rooms is larger than the other and has a walk-in closet.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $25 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Eugene, OR 97402. Please specify the Vista 10-154 and include a return address. A catalog featuring over 350 plans is available for $15. For more information, call (800) 634-0123 or visit www.associateddesigns.com.

Tiller From S-7

Most power tillers are simply too big for backyard gardens and too bulky to maneuver. (Not to mention the fact that they can cost a fortune and take up lots of space.) But a lightweight tiller is perfect for tilling under old growth, preparing soil for cultivation, and weeding in all kinds of gardens, large and small.

The original small tiller, with more than 1,000,000 sold worldwide, is the Mantis Tiller/Cultivator. The "20-pound wonder" is easy to handle and use. Its unique patented dig-ty till all types of soil - including sod and even hard, compacted clay.

The convenient nine-inch tine width is perfect for cultivating around shrubs and between garden rows. Remove the tilling cultivating tines and the powerful commercial-grade Mantis engine can be used with optional attachments such as a border edger, furrower, crevice cleaner, lawn aerator, lawn dethatcher and plow. The Mantis engine can easily be removed for use with an optional hedge trimmer attachment, too.

Because it's so lightweight, the Mantis Tiller is easy to carry from job to job throughout your yard. When the work is done, the handles fold down for compact storage and make it easy to transport the Mantis Tiller in a car trunk.

The Mantis Tiller is available directly from Mantis or from more than 3,000 lawn and garden dealers nationwide.

For more information call 1-800-366-6268, Dept. MT5904; or visit the Mantis Web site at www.mantisgardentools.com home and neighborhood," John Rosenow, the Foundation's President, said.

"Dogwoods have showy spring flowers, scarlet autumn foliage, and red berries which attract songbirds all winter."

The trees will be shipped postpaid at the right time for planting between March 1 and May 31 with enclosed planting instructions. The six to twelve inch trees are guaranteed to grow or they will be replaced free of charge.

Members also receive a subscription to Arbor Day, the Foundation's monthly publication, and the Tree Book with information about tree planting and care.

To become a member of the Foundation and receive the free trees, send a $10 contribution to Ten Free Dogwood
Trees, National Arbor Day
Foundation, 100 Arbor Ave.,
Nebraska City, NE 68410, by March 31.

GREATER BOSTON TOY SHOW
